EIGHT-HOUR DAY.

The Federation Has Not Yet Selected Its Champion.
(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

INDIANAPOLIS, (Ind.,) March 24. The meeting of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor has not yet selected a trade to inaugurate the eight-hour day, May 1, but has put it in the hands of a sub-committee. This committee will report before the council adjourns, and it is probable that the carpenters will be selected.

At today's session the protest of the Bt. Louis Trades Unions against the Knights of Labor was heard and it was decided that the trades unionists must leave the Knights of Labor.
Vice-President O'Connell was selected to push the investigation of the egint-hour law at the Brooklyn navy yard. He also attended to the amalga-mation of the metal workers and brass workers at their convention in June. It was decided not to form a national untin of Core Workers, but to wait until local unions of this craft are formed.

A SOCIALIST SQUABBLE. A SOCIALIST SQUABBLE.

OMAHA, (Neb.,) March 24.—At the last meeting of the Omaha Central Labor Union it was attempted to put through a social platform, but the attempt proved futile. Several members of the Socialistic element threatened to disrupt the central body if the resolutions were not adopted, and it is probable that a trades union or other organization will be effected by the skilled workers' unions and a few unskilled who have not espoused Socialistic principles.

JAMESON'S TRIAL.

Important Testimony is Given by Sergt. White-His Dispatches.

LONDON, March 24.—(By Atlantic Cable.) The trial of Dr. L. S. Jameson and his fellow-prisoners, charged with violating the Foreign Enlistment Act, in making a raid into the territory of the South African republic, was resumed in Bow-street Police Court this morning. Although there was a full attendance, there was less excitement. There was no demonstration when the prisoners were usherd into court.

Sergt. White of the Bechunaland mounted police testified to having refused to join Jameson's expedition, and added that Col. Grey informed the troopers before starting that they were not going to fight for the Queen, but for the supremacy of the British flag in South Africa. The sergeant also testified that Commissioner Newton dispatched him from Mafeking on December 30, in pursuit of Jameson's column, telling him to catch the latter at any cost. When the witness caught up with the column he handed his dispatches to Col. Grey, who ordered him to give them to Sir John Willoughby, who, in turn, told Sergt. White to give them to Jameson. The latter, however, sent him back to Sir John Willoughby, who finally distributed them.

Replying to a question, Sergt. White testified that he did not see any of the dispatches igven to Jameson. According to White, Sir John Willoughby, said: "Tell your commanding officer the dispatches have been received and will be attended to." The column, Sergt. White said, then proceeded in the direction of Johannesburg.

Bower, clerk in the office of Gen, Joubent, and commander-in-chief of the forces of the South African Republic, deposed to having delivered a message from Sir J. A. Dewitt, British agent at Pretoria, to the commanders of the Jameson expedition, and he sent a reply to it, whith was read in court, stating the supplies of the column were exhausted and it must proceed to Krugersdorp or Johannesburg.

Cuba Nearer and Dearer to Us Than Ireland.

Conferees Fail to Agree on the Form of the Resolutions-Mr. Boutelle and the Confederacy-The Naval Bill.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.) WASHINGTON, March 24.-Although the main Cuban resolutions have been recommitted to conference, the subject came up incidentally today on Sena-tor Mills's resolution for the forcible occupation of the island of Cuba to aid the Cubans in securing local self-gov-ernment. Senator Mills spoke two hours in support of the resolution. He was unsparing in his arraignment of Gen. Weyler as an "atroclous' scoun-drel and villain," and in his recital of Spain's bloody record in the old and new worlds. Senator Morgan also spoke briefly in further support of the Cuban resolutions. Senator Mills's resolutions went to the calendar after the speeches. The rest of the day was given to the Legislative Appropriatio Bill, which is not yet completed.

Bill, which is not yet completed.

Senator Hill's bill to remove the restrictions against the appointment as officers of the army or navy of persons who held commissions in the regular army or navy before the rebellion and who subsequently took part in the war on the side of the Confederacy, which bill passed the Senate during the height of the excitement over the Venezuelan boundary question, passed the House today, after two hours' debate, with but one dissenting vote, that of Mr. Boutelle of Maine. The Democrats, except Mr. Cummings of New York, who spoke, as he said, "as one of 800,000 northern Democrats who fought for the Union," and Mr. Wilson of South Carolina, who was drawn into the debate by Mr. Boutelle, refrained entirely from participation.

Mr. Hull, chairman of the Military Affairs Committee, who had charge of the bill, admitted it would subserve no practical purpose and was largely sentimental.

Mr. Boutelle, who led the opposition single-handed, thought it would furnish a bad object-lesson for naval and military candidates who were about entering on careers in the service of their country, and when he got warmed up to his subject, called attention to the fact that many southern men in Congress in the past had obstructed legislation Senator Hill's bill to remove the re

Bills were also passed to make the sale of spirituous liquors under a false brand punishable by fine and imprisonment, to turn over the property of the Mormon church now in the hands of a receiver to the trustees, and severel others of minor importance.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.) WASHINGTON, March 24.—SENATE. The displacement of the Cuban resolu-tions had no apparent effect in dimin-shing the aftendance in the Senate galleries today, as it was expected that the Mills resolutions proposing to use the army and navy in taking posses-sion of Cuba and holding it until the people had established local self-gov-ernment would occasion further de-

A bill was passed amending the law prescribing the death penalty for In-dians convicted of rape and leaving the punishment discretionary with the court.

A resolution offered by Senator Hoar was adopted, requesting the President to transmit to the Senate all dispatches, correspondence, etc., from November 5, 1875, to 1878, concerning the pacification of the pending conflict in Cuba.

Senator Mills was recognized at this point in support of the Cubahr resolution introduced by him yesterday. He said the resolutions heretofore before the Senate were steps in the right direction, but very short steps. The people of Cuba had far greater claims on the United States than the mere recognition of belligerency. If Ireland struck for liberty today, the hearts of the American people would beat in sympathy, and so if Poland or Hungary asserted the right of liberty. But the United States had much closer relations to Cuba than to Ireland or Poland or Hungary, for it was a part of the western hemisphere, over which the Monroe doctrine extended the influence of this country. Senator Mills declared the Monroe doctrine was the law of protection, and as such, God was the author of it. It was the same right of self-protection which the individual exercises in abating a nuisance or destroying a powder-house near his premises. A resolution offered by Senator Hoar ercises in abating a nuisance or destroying a powder-house near his premises.

Jefferson had used plain words in threatening to Join England and sweep the French fleets from the seas if France persisted in holding the mouth of the Mississippi River. The same spirit had brought forth President Cleveland's Venezuela message. Cubastood as the key to the Guif, and our unvarying policy, said Senator Mills, had been to resist any transfer of Cuba to another monarchy. The United States had stood by as a jailer and prevented Cuba from going to France or England. And, if we insisted on keeping Cuba in the possession of Spain, was it not the moral obligation of the United States to see that Spain gave Cuba fair government, to see that the hell of Spanish despotism was lifted from the Cuban people?

The day will come, said Senator Mills, when the American conscience will be aroused to its guilt in permitting the oppression of Cuba and when that consciousness comes, the American people will fill this chamber with Senators who will stop the oppression. The Senator read of two atroctiles attributed to Gen.

of the atroclous scoundrel. He could not be in Cuba today if the United States would draw her sword. How the cheeks of our American women must be suffused, how out children must blush, to know that this government stands idly by while Spain, with the keys of her dungeons dangling at her side, permits such an atrocieus villain to raise his hand against defenseless women."

The protection which Spain gave to Cuba was the protection which the hawk gives the dove. Cuba cries to us, "Deliver us from these monsters," but we stand meekly, serving only as Spain's jailer. In the Senator's own State of Texas they had, he said, drunk of the dregs of Spanish brutality. He related the circumstances of the annihilation of Santa Ana's forces on Texas soil and reviewed the bloodiness of the Virginius affairs. To the shame of this government we had permitted the Virginius affairs. To the shame of this government we had permitted the Virginius affairs. To the shame of this government we had permitted the Virginius affairs. To the shame of this government we had permitted the virginius affairs. To the shame of this government we had permitted the virginius affairs. To the shame of this government we had permitted the virginius affairs. To the shame of this government we had permitted the virginius affairs. To shame of this government we had permitted the virginius affairs to the shame of this government we had permitted the virginius affairs. To the shame of this government we had permitted the virginius affairs to the shame of the United States, after a diplomatic correspondence of years, Spain paid $77,000. Senator Mills replied that there was something beneath the surface; he did not know how far sugar stocks would be affected by action on the part of the United States. It was asserted that trade would suffer, but Senator Mills declared that a hundred billion dollars would be a small expenditure for the glory of releasing the prisoners on the island of pines." It was the duty of the United States to protect and relieve those p on our hands. Referring to the objections coming from commercial sources, Senator Mills quoted the words of Goldsmith: "Honor quoted the words of Goldsmith: "Honor falls when commerce long prevails." The Senator said he had just received a letter asserting that "another fool has turned jingo" and asking him why he had not left jingoism to Senator Lodge and Mr. Chandler. The letter was signed, "A Diggusted Democrat." "Now, if I had the X rays," said Senator Mills, "and used it in examining the pockets of the writer of that letter, I would find sugar stock there." The Senator closed with a figurative picture of Cuba lying like a cripple at our gate with extended arms and shrunken cheek, crying, "Help us; help us." There was a ripple of applause as Senator Mills closed.

Senator Morgan followed with fur-

Senator Mills closed.

Senator Morgan followed with further evidence of the existence of war in Cuba. This brought out a protest from Senator Hale, who pointed out that the Cuban resolutions had been formally recomitted to a conference committee, the understanding being that the entire subject was recommitted. At the conclusion of Senator Morgan's remarks Senator Mille's resonance. Morgan's remarks, Senator Mills's res ution went to the calendar and the Sentae resumed the consideration of the Legislative Appropriation Bill, The bill was completed with the exception of items relating to compensation of sioners, etc.

The legislative bill was laid aside and a bill passed excepting logging-cars from the operations of the law re-adjourned.

HOUSE.—Over a hundred members have taken advantage of the fact that the House has no important matters pending, to go home, and the attendance is consequently very slim. The bill debated yesterday to abolish the death penalty in certain cases in which it is prescribed in the federal statutes and allowing the jury to return a verdict qualified "without capital punishment" in cases of rape and murder, was passed by 170 to 60.

Mr. Hitt, chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee, called up the message of the Senate announcing the Senate disagreement to the conference report on the Cuban resolutions. On his motion the House insisted on its subsitiute for the Senate resolutions and agreed to the further conference asked for by the Senate.

Mr. Boutelle, chairman of the Naval Committee, reported the Naval Appropriation Bill.

The House passed the bill to amend the internal revenue laws so as to make the sale of spirituous liquors, except under a brand designating the kind and quality, punishable by a fine of $500 and imprisonment for six months. There being no other business before the House, the committees were called. Mr. Evans of Kentucky called up from the Committee on Ways and Means a bill to amend Section 3449 of the internal revenue laws so as to make Means a bill to amend Section 3449 of the internal revenue laws so as to make the sale of spurious liquors, except under the brand by which they are known to the trade, designating the kind and quality, punishable by a fine of $500 and imprisonment for six months and the forfeiture of the liquors. Mr. Evans explained that the bill was urged by the internal revenue commissioner. The country, he said, was being swindled by spurious liquors and wines.

Ing swindled by spurious liquors and wines.

Mr. Cummings of New York made a humorous speech, in which he urged the passage of the bill not only as a protection to the revenue, but as conducive to the safety of human life. He instanced a case where he had purchased "for admick friend" a peculiarly good quality of brandy which his physician said would kill at forty rods. It consisted, he said, of a compound of wood alcohol, whisky and strychnine. Cheating the revenue was bad enough, but destroying life for the benefit of whisky distillers was not to be tolerated.

Mr. Connelly of Illinois was in sympathy with the purpose of the bill, but objected to the word "knowingly," as qualifying the sellers of these spurious liquors. That word would furnish the loophole by which offenders could escape conviction.

Mr. Evans proposed to withdraw the word, but Mr. Crisp of Georgia objected, declaring he would never vote for a law making a man liable to penalties for a crime which he did not "knowingly" commit.

Mr. Evans replied that no internal-revenue law contained the word "knowingly". No dealer in spurious liquor could do so without knowing exactly what he was doing. The word "knowingly" was stricken from the bill, 25 to 55, and the bill was passed.

The Senate jqint resolution for the disposition of certain property now in the he hads of the receiver of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints was adopted.

A hill was passed amending the act creating a Circuit Court of Appeals, so as to give an appeal on court orders appointing receivers.

"I thank you gentlemen, for the honor of presiding over your temporary deliberations. We are assembled to-gether under circumstances which led to this convention, unusual in impor-tance. Next June the Republican party for the first time in its history will name as its standard-bearer a cit-izen of the Empire State, and we will today initiate the campaign which will estore our party to power. "Never was there such great impa ence for the return of a party to power as now possesses the great majority of the American people. They miss many blessings which they did not know they had until they were deprived of them by the Republican defeat four years ago. That the country, the richest is the world in natural resources, should suffer beyond others from financial distress is proof demonstrative of inefficient administration of its affairs. We do not look to one party for a faultless administration but that a ruinous condition, resulting from failacious legislation should be remedied, the people have a right to demand. If our distress were inevitable, if it were caused by war or pestilence, we would endure it without complaint; but, when we reflect that it is the result of ignorance and perverlower as now possesses the great ma is the result of ignorance and perverpreconcilative with the weitare or the public. It has brought upon the country a succession of business disasters, for which it seeks to make guilty the sun, moon and the weather, as if they came by divine trusting on'; but the Democracy in power cannot obscure its faults by excuses. It has shown that it is one thing to make platforms and another to make laws. Never was there greater opposition, greater need for wise legislation in Wasington than during the present time. Never was there a more complete failure of relief. The Democracy had not advanced one great national doctrine, which, when that party was in full power, became embodied in a statute—the Wilson bill—notwithstanding.

"That bill represents no doctrine or policy, and meets with the approval of no party or individual. It illustrates the incoherence of the Democratic party and its utter incapacity to achieve substantial and beneficial results. Its administration of the national finances, while giving new proof of the wealth of the nation, has been characterized by costly blunders. Washington, in his farewell address, warned the nation as a very important source of strength and security, to cherish public credit. One method of preserving it is to use it as sparingly as possible.' The wisdom of these words is apparent, but they describe the very reverse of the Democratis' management of affairs. Its conduct will soon prove fatal to its supremacy. The death of a party is always a suicide.

a very important source of strength and security, to cherish public credit. One method of preserving it is to use it as sparingly as possible. The wisdom of these words is apparent, but they describe the very reverse of the Democraty management of affairs. Its conduct will soon prove fatal to its supremacy. The death of a party is always a suicide.

"The Republican party stands for something definite. Its treatment of public credits and finances has invariably been conservative and efficient. The business world knows from experience that it has not only a well-defined policy, but has character and strength when in power to cause its policy to be exemplified in laws. The certainty of its early restoration has already begun to inspire popular confidence that the present industrial depression will soon case. How different was the feeling which attended the advent of the Democracy to power. The lamentable change is for the best. We are accustomed to regard ours as an indissoluble Union, impregnable to assault from without and no longer capable of serious internal discord. But the experience of the vest, as in some of the States of the West, as in some of the States of the West, as in some of the States of the West, as in some of the States of the West, as in some of the States of the States of the West, as in some of the States of the States of the States of the shape of a popular orator, panders to the delusions and plays upon the weaknesses of the people, it requires little to excite them to a condition in which, the idea of this Union seems less in the form and deficient of the idea of this Union seems less.

repugnant than their fancied grievances. In a country composed like ours the policy of the Republican party—call that party by whatever name you please—is and always will be essential to the preservation of the Union. It is preëminently a national policy. Hamilton's conception of nationality and national greatness has been steadily becoming the accepted Republican doctrine.

"Our party is committed to a currency that will command the world's confidence, without which lucrative domestic production and progressive foreign commerce are impossible. At a time when the predominant problems present themselves for solution, pertaining to trade and finance, no man is better equipped for the position of chief executive of the nation than that successful business man and statesman, Levi P. Morton. He is a man who has convictions and ideals, together with the courage and independence to bring them to realization. His character is formed for a noble end. True, he is ambitious, but his aim is reached by advancing the welfare and dignity of his country. He is a statesman whose training has not been merely in the college or caucus, but in actual service. With a dignity that commands universal respect, he combines a warmth of soul and of manner which draws to him every one, however humble. He illustrates in his character and career the typical virtues of the highest American citizenship.

"I confidently believe that our candidate will be the choice of our party and of the nation, and that, as President of the United States, a special session of the Republican Congress will be called for the relief of the suffering people on the 4th of next March by President Levi P. Morton. Then he will behold a noble and mighty nation rouse herself like a strong man recovering from a lingering and alarming disease, and enter upon an honorable and prosperous ter upon an honorable and prosperous period, closing the century in a halo of Senator Clarence Lexow was made chairman of the Committee on Resolutions. The convention was in session only fifty-three minutes. Adjournment was taken until 7:30 o'clock this evening was taken until 7:30 o'clock this evening, when a permanent organization will be effected with Congressman Southwick in the chair. The McKinley element in the convention is not formidable, and it is scarcely probable that it will be heard from at this evening's session.

The petition originating with the Erie-county delegation asking that the names of Platt and Lauterback be dropped from the list of delegates and the names of Samuel Thomas of New York and Mayor E. B. Jewett of Buffalo substituted, received but twenty-five signatures out of a membership of 600 in the convention.

The Committee on Contested Seats met after the convention adjourned this afternoon. The first contest was from the Eighteenth New York District, and an affidavit was presented by the contestants that adherents of the Platt followers attempting to demonstrate that the Brookfield following had, between threats and intimidations, striven to compel persons to refrain from voting at the regular primaries, and had declared people elected at primaries, that never were elected. This was denied by those sitting, who, at the appointed time, would show the same application had been properly refused at the Congress convention. The Platt adherents asked at least for one-half the delegates.

asked at least for one-half the delegates.

The Twenty-second district of New York also presented a contest, the Platt people asking to be seated in place of the Brookfield people. J. I. R. Englehart presented the contest, and said the sitting Brookfield men had not held regular meetings, and their delegates were irregular. The sitting membership presented affidavits of fifty out of ninety-one delegates to prove their case.

Almost the same claims were made in the case of a contest in the Thirtieth Assembly District, where the Brookfield men turned the tables and asked for the seats of the Platt men on the ground that there was not a convention held in the place which the committee designated. The Platt men declared that Mayor Strong's men aided the contestants to keep them from holding the convention in the proper place.

There were also contests in the Thirty-third and Twelfth districts, the Brookfield people asking for seats in both districts that were held by Platt both districts that were field by Platt men. There were no contests outside of New York. The committee decided in favor of the sitting delegates in all dis-tricts where a half vote was given to each delegation. This decision allowed the anti-Platt men in the Thirty-second ond Thirty-third districts to keep their seats.

The Committee on Nominations met this afternoon. Thomas C. Platt, Warner Miller, Chauncey M. Depew and Edward Lauterback were nominated as delegates-at-large to the national convention, and Hamilton Fish, C. H. Bab-cock, Frank Witherbee and Daniel Mc-Millan as alternates. One dissenting vote prevented unanimous nomination. Gen. Tracy of New York and E. H. But-ler of Buffalo were nominated as electors-at-large, but one vote in opposition being cast. It was 7:53 o'clock when Temporary Chairman Parsons called the convention to order tonight. Senator Brackett, chairman of the Committee on Contested Seats, then read his report. When he read that the sitting delegates in all but one district had been allowed to retain their seats, there were cheers and applause, and the report was adopted with very little opposition.

Frederick S. Gibbs of the Committee on Peymanent Organization recorded. Chairman Parsons called the conventi sales and a Democratic-Populistic alliance devoted to free-silver colnage, every measure of treasury relief provided by the Republican House has failed to receive Democratic support, and has been returned to the House loaded down by the Senate with a free-silver amendment. That is the situation which has prevailed for months and prevails today. One more popular expression in line with the elections of the past three years is required to give to the party of tariff protection and sound finance renewed control of the government at Washington."

Southwick declared that, along with the revival of the protective tariff, must come a restoration of the policy of reciprocity in trade. Taking up the subject of Presidential candidates, Southwick said: "Tonight the representatives of militant and triumphant republicanism have assembled here for the purpose of sending to the National Convention at St. Louis four delegates at-large, instructed to cast their yotes for Levi P. Morton."

In conclusion Southwick said: "The imposing character of this demonstration in favor of Levi P. Morton's Presidential canvass is not to be doubted. It auspiciously inaugurates the fight which will be waged for success and to the end at St. Louis, Here are centered the vast business interests of the country. Here is the largest city, the greatest industrial center, the leading seaport, and the most important money center of the Western Hemisphere. The business men of the city of New York know Levi P. Morton and attainments. His judgment is assurance positive to them that the greatest business establishments in theland—the government of the United States—would be run by a business man, on business methods, and with due regard to the importance of maintaining friendly relations and commerce with the nations of the world, in these business methods, and with due regard to the importance of maintaining friendly relations and commerce with the nations of the world, in these troubulous times, were Levi P. Morton in the White House."

Congressman Southwick finished at 8:45 o'clock, and then called for the report of the Committee on Resolutions. Senator Lexow said the committee was not ready to report.

Senator Lexow said the committee was not ready to report.

George W. Aldrich of Rochester arose to report the selection of the delegates-at-large, and when they were named. Thomas F. Ritchie of Kings county arose in the front row and tried to get recognition, but in a minute the convention was in an uproar, and the chairman refused to recognize him. Aldridge continued to read the alternates, Ritchie shouting: "Mr. Chairman, I wish to make a minority report." (Hisses and cheers.)

When the chairman could get the discordant element somewhat straightened out, the Brooklyn man was recognized, and he read the following minority report:

ort:
"To the Republican Convention of the State of New York: The minority of the Committee on nominations respectfully disagree with the report of the majority on the choice of delegates-atlarge to the Republican National Convention at St. Louis. Messrs C. M. Depew and Warner Miller are, it is understood, willing to cast their votes in the national convention in accordance Depew and Warner Miller are, it is understood, willing to cast their votes in the national convention in accordance with the sentiment of the State. It is therefore desirable that their associates shall be of kindred spirit, and the minority of the Committee on Nominations respectfully present as the other two delegates, Col. Baker B. Jewett of Buffalo, (loud cheers and hisses,) and Gen. Samuel Thomas of New York, with the recommendation that if it appears, after the first ballot, that Hon. Levi P. Morton cannot be the choice of the national convention, that the delegates-at-large from this State will use all honorable means to promote the cause of William McKinley." Then pandemonium reigned, one-half of the audience rising and shouting for McKinley as the name was read. The chairman's gavel was raised again and again, but without effect. The house was in an uproar. Just over the chairman's head was swung a banner bearing this inscription: "McKinley, Prosperity's Advance Agent."

The very audacity of the act seemed to appall the Morton leaders for a moment, and for a few seconds the McKinley adherents had the floor to themselves. Then from every part of the house came roars of "Morton, Morton,"

Kinley adherents had the floor to them-selves. Then from every part of the house came roars of "Morton, Morton," and the Albany contingent, with two Morton banners, took the place of the McKinley men. The transformation started, and it was a question of lungs against lungs. The superior force of the Morton men soon made their side of the issue more prominent. Chair-

Senator Lexow then announced that the platform was ready, and, stepping to the front, read the platform, as follows:

"The Republicans of New York, in convention assembled, again declare their firm and unyleiding adherence to the doctrine of protection to American industries, protection to the products of the American farm, and protection to American labor. We are in favor of a tariff which, while providing an income sufficient to meet the expenses of the government, honestly and economically administered, at the same time secures home labor and home capital from unequal foreign competition.

"We believe in a reciprocity with other nations which shall give our producers and manufacturers an opportunity to dispose of their surplus products and to obtain articles we need from those countries on the most advantageous terms. The agitation for the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1 seriously disturbs all industrial interests, and calls for a clear statement of the Republican attitude upon this question to the end that the trade of this country at home and abroad may again be placed upon a sound and stable foundation.

"We recognize in the movement for the free coinage of silver an attempt to degrade the long-established standard of our monetary system, and hence a blow to public and private credit, at once costly to the national government and harmful to our domestic and foreign commerce. Until there is a prospect of international agreement as to the free giver coinage and while gold remains the standard of the United States and of the civilized world, the Republican party of New York declares itself in favor of the firm and honorable maintenance of that standard.

"We believe in a business administration of the government by business principles, for the benefit of the suffering business interests of this great people. For nearly, four years the material progress of the nation has been blocked so that all branches of trade have suffered, and the workmen have been deprived of reasonable and living busines self and great benefit to his State and self and great benefit to his State and to his country.

"His grasp of public affairs was never so clear and comprehensive as it is today, and his ability to labor earnestly for the welfare of the nation was never so distinctly marked as now. Gov. Morton's long and varied public career offers proof positive that he is a sincere and earnest Republican, and that fidelity to the principles of his party is with him a second nature. He stands for honesty in public offices. There is no doubt as to the esteem in which he is held at home. Two years since he polled over 150,000 more votes than the most popular Democrat in the State, receiving by far the greatest majority ever given a Republican candidate for Governor.

Governor.

"Gov. Morton's long, honorable service, his spotless character, his great executive ability, his devotion to his party and its principles eminently fit him for the Presidency and entitle him to our hearty and enthusistic support. Therefore we instruct our delegates to the St. Louis convention to present him the St. Louis convention to present him as our candidate for President, and urge upon them to use every honorable means to secure his nomination."

When the reading of the platform had been finished, it was adopted without debate and the convention adjourned.

In the Minnesota State Republican convention, held today at Exposition Hall, in which Harrison was nominated four years ago, Robert G. Evens of Minneapolis, George Thompson of St. Paul, Charles F. Hendry of Sauk Center and L. P. Hunt of Mankato were elected delegates-at-large to the St. Louis convention and instructed to use all their influence in securing the nomination of McKinley, who presided over the convention of 1892.

Influence in securing the nomination of McKinley, who presided over the convention of 1892.

The result was not attained without a struggle, though the victory of scientific politics over State pride was decisive. The withdrawal of the name of Cushman K. Davis, authorized by a dispatch from the Senator at Washington, removed the only obstacle in the way of a complete McKinley victory and by a strange chance, all but one of the delegates chosen, C. F. Hendry, were strongly inclined toward Davis before his withdrawal. Aside from the election nothing of moment transpired, except the adoption of a platform relterating and indorsing established Republican doctrines and containing the following financial plank:

"Resolved, that we favor the use of both gold and silver to the extent to which they can be maintained in circulation at a parity in purchasing and debt-paying power; that we are earnestly opposed under the present conditions to the free and unlimited coinage of silver, for the manifest reason that it would destroy such parity, enormously contract the volume of our currency by forcing gold out of circulation and immediately place us on a silver basis.

THE PROCEEDINGS. MINNEAPOLIS, March 24.—Just before the State Republican Convention was called to order this afternoon, it was announced that Senator Davis wired Congressman Tawney, withdrawing from the Presidential race, owing to refusal of three Minnesota district conventions yesterday to indorse his candidacy. Minnesota's eighteen votes at St. Louis will be for McKinley. It was nearly 1 o'clock when the Republican convention was called to order by Chairman Bixby. Senator Davis's telegram of withdrawal caused unbounded excitement, but if cleared the atmosphere wonderfully. The first clash was on the temporary chairmanship, the two candidates being ex-Lieut.—Gov. Rice and ex-Lieut.—Gov. Gideon S. Iyes. Rice won by 632 to 500.

The following resolution was adopted by a rising vote: "Resolved, that the well-considered and pronounced preference of the Republicans of Minnesotic or the Presidential standard. MINNEAPOLIS, March 24.-Just be Upon a motion of the previous question, the chairman put the Kings county man's amendment and the rollicall was begun. The chair amounced the vote as 631 against and 109 votes for the amendment, and then there was a wild cheering. The full report of the committee was adopted by a viva voce vote.

Senator Lexow then announced that the platform was ready, and, stepping to the front, read the platform, as follows:

"The Republicans of New York to the grave and alternates-at-large today to be elected by it do all in their power honorably from now until that object is accomplished, to bring about promptly for President of the United States."

The four delegates-at-large are: P. G. Evans of Minneapolis, George Thompon of Sluk Center, L. P. Hendricks of Sauk Center, L. P. Hunt of Mankato. They were elected by acclamation amid wild cheers; the delegates all rising, some mounting chairs and afternates-at-large today to be elected by it do all in their power honorably from now until that object is accomplished, to bring about promptly for President of the United States."

The delegates to St. Louis having been selected, the convention became restless and showed signs of breaking up, and before the candidates for electors had been chosen many had left the hall. J. Senator Davis's message to the convention is as follows:

To Frank B. Kellogg, James A. Tawney, Henry A Castle, C. A. Severance: I am bound to always, and do, most loyally, respect the wishes of the people of Minneapolis. For that reason I request that my name be not declared in the deliberation of the Minneapolis convention. Give all my friends my most enduring and heartfeltthanks, Minnesota Republicans should, in my opinion, declare against the United States undertaking the unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1; should also declare for a protective tariff that should encourage, secure and perpetuate domestic production of everything agricultural, mining or manufactured, that we can produce or make; that will also pledge the Republican party to protect American industry and manhood against the competition now threatening them from the Orient, particularly Japan; that will also, by provisions for reciprocity, enlarge our foreign commerce with nations who produce what we cannot produce. It should assert the policy of the United States as declared by James Monroe, and by everyone of our statesmen since; declare that the people of Cuba ought to be recognized as belligerents; declare for coast defenses and such other naval and military preparations as will surely make us able to secure peace by our manifest invincibility in war."

AUSTIN (Tex.,) March 24.— After waiting all day for the Executive Committee to pass on credentials looking to the seating of contesting delegations for temporary organization, the State Republican Convention was called at 9:15 o'clock tonight, and a row was immediately precipitated over the matter of electing a temporary chairman. The Allison-Reed men, having captured the Executive Committee's report, recommended Cuney, colored, the Allison leader.

A. J. Rosenthal, a McKinley delegate A. J. Rosental, a markiney delegate, was also placed before the convention, Cuney was elected by a vote of 407 to 205. The fight was made strictly on the color line, Cuney pleading with his race for support. The convention adjourned until morning.

"Where are you employed?" asked Mr. Ely, without noticing the last part of Miss Martinot's statement.

"I am starring in Boucicault's play," she replied, "How much do you get a week?" was the next question. All those in the room waited patiently for her answer, some wondering if her salary was hun-dreds or thousands. They were relieved when she replied that she got $150 a week for her services, and added that it was only enough to support her, be-cause, she said, she had to pay for her costumes. The witness said that she lived at the Hoffman House. Then lawyer Ely began to get on delicate ground in the examination. He coughed, fairs was called there was a feeble echo of the war talk raised by the President's Venezuelan message. It will be remembered that the Senate at that time passed Senator Hill's resolution, removing the restriction to appointment in the army or navy of persons who held commissions in the army or navy before the rebellion, and who subsequently engaged in insurrection against the United States. Mr. Hull, chairman of the committee, said this bill would remove the last restriction of the statute books against ex-Confederate soldiers.

The debate that followed was both interesting and entertaining. Mr. Boutelle took the floor in opposition to the bill. He did not hold a commission from the Union soldiers, he said, and represented nobody but himself. But he could see no reason for the passage of this bill. The sentiment behind it was very beautiful—and what practical purpose would it serve? Was there any officer who could be commissioned under it. Mr. Boutelle declared that if no practical purpose who enacted this law.

"I hold in my hand," said Mr. Boutelle, flourishing a pamphlet aloft, "a copy of the Constitution of South Carolina State, which provides a uniform tax on all voters in the State, save such as served in the Confederate Army, who are relieved of the tax."

This brought Mr. Wilson of South Carolina in the field to defend his State, he had been a member of the constitutional convention, he said, and the only discrimination in it in favor of ex-Confederates was that those over 50 years of age should be relieved from road duty.

Mr. Boutelle called attention to the condition of affairs in the South, which condition of the condition of the condition to the condition of affairs in the South, which condition of affairs in the South, which of age should be relieved from road duty.

Mr. Boutelle called attention to the condition of affairs in the South, which had brought thirty contested election cases into the House, because the right to vote was persistently and systematically withheld over a large portion of territory of the United States. Does that show a condition of affairs that warrants us in ripping up the legislation of the war?

"Is it a light thing for men to take an oath to support their country and then draw their swords against it? I do not desire to draw the line against any man, but I do say I cannot see why we are called upon foday to give such an object lesson to the boys at Annapolis and West Point."

Mr. Grosvenor of Ohio got the floor.

but I do say I cannot see why we are called upon foday to give such an object lesson to the boys at Annapolis and West Point."

Mr. Grosvenor of Ohio got the floor. If it had been left to him, he said, he could never have introduced the resolution, but, being brought up, he would vote for it. He did not care, he said, what the South Carolina constitution contained. Continuing, he said he would vote for any bill that made possible a higher degree of loyalty of every man who served the Confederacy. (Applause on the Democratic side.)

"The time has come," said he, "when we need unity on both sides of Mason and Dixon's line."

He cited the numerous statutes relieving the Southern soldiers of their disabilities.

"Some of these soldiers," he said, "are now in the United States Senate; others are in the Cabinet, as they have been in Republican Cabinets. Gen. Grant, who has been so highly eulogized, sent abroad as the representative of the United States Gen. Longstreet, whom I regard as one of the ablest of the rebel generals."

Mr. Grow in a brief speech expressed the opinion that neither party to the rebellion could perpetuate itself into a party of perpetual hates.

At this point Mr. Hopkins of Illinois made a motion to adjourn, which was lost. Then Mr. Pickler of South Dakota spoke in favor of the bill.

There was hearty applause, when Mr. Wealker, a Virginia Republican and at one time a Confederate general in Stonewall Jackson's brigade, said that much of the harmony, good feeling and good will in his section depended on the passage of the bill.

"Is there not something in sentiment, harmony and good will?" he asked, "and is not this sentiment in the right direction? In the South there is today a turning to this union in the minds and hearts with a devotion that people of this country cannot conceive. I admit that there are some who cannot learn and cannot forget; there were many old Confederates in the South who, if wars were to come, would carry the battlefiag of the Union and ask the privileger to fight for th

NAVAL APPROPRIATION BILL

Then, at 4.50 o'clock, the House adjourned.

NAVAL APPROPRIATION BILL.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—The Naval Appropriation Bill for the fiscal year which begins July 1, was completed today by the House Committee on Naval Affairs and may be considered by the House this week. The total amount carried by the bill is $31,611,034, of which $12,779,133 is for an increase in the navy. The appropriation is an increase over the amount of the last bill of $29,333,333.

For Mare Island, Cal., $92,204 is appropriated, including $30,000 for extension of quay wall; $30,000 for carsion of quay wall; $30,000 for a shipfitters' shed; for Puget Sound drydock, $102,900, including $60,000 for construction and repair-shops and $20,000 for storehouse.

The principal features of the bill have been mentioned as they were decided upon by the committee. Under the increase of the navy the chief items are the four new battleships and fifteen torpedo-boats, the former to carry the heaviest armor and powerful ordnance upon a displacement of about eleven thousand tons, and have the highest practical speed for vessels of their class. Speed premiums are not to be offered, all parts of the vessels are to be of domestic manufacture and the contracts are to let within ninety days after the passage of the act. One firm under the act may bid for all of the vessels.

For the hulls and outfits of the vessels and steam machinery heretofors authorized $7.670,678 is made, available; for armor and armament for vessels authorized by the acts of 1886, 1890, 1892, 1893 and this act, and the three torpedo-boats authorized by the act of 1885, $4,871,544 is appropriated, for the completion of the equipment of new vessels, $237,000. Under the bureau of construction and repairs $1,250,000 to carried for the construction and repair of vessels and an additional aum of $380,000 is made immediately available for work urgenity required, on the Mantonomab, Bennington, Baltimore, Petrel, Mohican, Ranger, Atlanta, the tugs Fortune and Standish

the tank. For steam machinery of vessels, $728,500 is appropriated and in addition there are special items of $150,000 for the Chicago, $100,000 for the Annual interpretation of the war talk raised by the Fresident's Venezuelan message. It will be remembered that the Senate at that time passed Senator Hill's resolution, removing the restriction to appointment in the army or navy of persona who held commissions in the army

THE QUESTION OF REFUNDING.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—The House Committee on Pacific Railways today gave a hearing to Gen. Barham of California, in reply to Stubbs, general traffic manager of the Central Pacific. Gen. Barham read newspaper extracts bearing upon the subject, which, he said, showed that the people of California were not unanimous upon the question of refunding.

He quoted the opinion of the Attorney-General to the effect that the statute of limitations ran against the government as against other creditors.
This, he said, was not an issue. The United States was not barred, and he cited Supreme Court decisions on the question. The government, he claimed, could enforce the original liability of the stockholders without proceeding through the company. In conclusion, he expressed the belief that the question should be settled by the courts and not by Congress.

CONFEREES DO NOT AGREE.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—The conferees on the Cuban resolutions adjourned at 3:10 o'clock without reaching an agreement. They will meet again tomorrow at 2 o'clock.

The entire time of the conference was spent in canvassing the situation, and trying to arrive at common ground on which the two houses can stand. The Senate conferees explained fully the difficulties they had encountered in the Senate and made it clear to the House members of the conference that it would be necessary for the House to yield some things to prevent leaving the question in the air between the two houses. The House conferees accepted this, and showed a willingness to make reasonable concessions, agreeing, as they said, fully with the Senators that it would place both houses in a ridiculous attitude to have the matter fail in conference, after both houses, by such great majorities, had agreed, each in its own way, upon an expression friendly to Cuba.

Two alternatives were presented, which were those of the House accepting the Senate resolutions without change, or the modifying of the House resolutions by leaving out the third of the series providing for intervention. When the conference adjourned no decision had been reached as to which course should be pursued, or whether some other course might not be taken. If the Senate resolutions are accepted by the House, it will not be necessary to bring the question into the Senate again, and some of the Senators think the conference will finally result in their acceptance.

SENATE SUB-COMMITTEE. WASHINGTON, March 24.—Senators Frye, Wolcott and Brice have been appointed a sub-committee on behalf of the Senate Committee on Pacific Railways to act with the House sub-committee in drafting the Pacific Railway Bill.

PEFFER AND THE RAILROADS. WASHINGTON, March 24.—Senator Peffer today introduced a bill provid-ing for the amendment of the intering for the amendment of the inter-state commerce law so as to authorize the Interstate Commerce Commission to proceed summarily by petition through the courts against any rail-road company which may refuse to obey any requirement of the commis-sion rates or charges on agricultural products and other freights, and re-quiring the courts to give the preced-ence to such cases over others on their dockets.

ALASKAN LAND LEGISLATION. WASHINGTON, March 24.—Two bills to materially change the public land administration of Alaska were reported administration of Alaska were reported today by the House Committee on Public Lands. One of them was to create the office of Surveyor-General of Alaska, with a salary of $2000. The other was to authorize the President to appoint a register and receiver for public lands. The committee also favorably reported to the House a bill to permit persons who have located mining claims on forest reservations the rightclaims on forest reservations the right-of-way to those reservations, and the right to build tramways, etc. Also a bill to open Fort Lewis reservation in Colorado, which includes 30,000 acres, to the location of mining and other

GSI TELEGRAPH TO THE TIMES.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—(Special Dispatch.) The Chronicle's special from New York says that Nicola Tesia, the electrician and scientist, has had in course of development for some time a project for instantaneous and simultaneous communication to all parts of the earth, and perhaps to some of the nearer planets. Tesia's plan does not deal with fireworks, or the fillumination of a large part of the earth's surface, in the hope of attracting the attention of the dwellers on Mars, but deals wholly with electric waves. Tesia said today:

"We know that the electric disturbances on the sun are productive of simular disturbances on the earth in the form of thunder-showers. Now, why isn't it equally conceivable that a disturbance on the earth's surface should produce some tangible effect on other planets? The transmission of disturbances on the sun show beyond doubt that waves of electricity are propagated through all space. The objection may be put forward that sufficient electrical disturbance cannot be made on the earth's surface, and that we should be wholly dependent upon thunderstorms and other phenomena of nature for the success of our experiment. But, on the contrary, we can make all the for the success of our experiment. But, on the contrary, we can make all the artificial thunder and lightning we artificial thunder and lightning we want.

"There is no difficulty in making an electric apparatus with a spark gap of a mile, and if that did not prove effective it could be increased. Do not get the impression that the success of the experiment is in any way dependent upon light, noise, or vibration accompanying such electric discharge. It is wholly through electric waves which are propagated through the atmosphere and ether beyond that we may hope to attain any results. But if there are intelligent inhabitants of Mars, or any other planet, it seems to me that we can do something to attract their attention."

A London cablegram says it is reported that the British Ambassador to Washington, Sir Julian Pauncetote, will shortly go to London to discuss with the government certain features of the Venezuelan question.

A Dublin cablegram says that multinous conduct on the part of the Thirteenth Huzzars is reported from Dundalk. Cavalrymen are said to have hacked to pleces twenty-eight-saddles and bridles. Several-huzzars have been arrested.

A St. Louis dispatch says that two chatted deeds of trust have been filed by the Kingsland & Douglas Manufacturing Company for the flengist of preferred creditors. Charles W. Bates is named as trustee in both instruments. The first deed conveys to the Mechanies Bank of St. Louis property valued at $6.481. The Fourth National Bank and thirty-five other firms and individuals are the beneficiaries of the second deed, their claims approximating

The most important opinion handed down by the Court of Appeals at Kansas City from a public point of view was that the State of Missouri has complete jurisdiction over the Mississippi and Missouri Rivers where those rivers form the boundary-line of the State, so that the State would have jurisdiction over gambling or illegal whisky-selling on a boat in those rivers. Under this ruling the men who have taken part in prize-fights on the newly-made island in the river above Kansas City would be amenable to the Missouri laws and Missouri officers might interfere and stop fights there in the future.

The District Court at Sloux City, Iowa, has taken under advisement one of the most peculiar cases ever tried in the State, affecting the authority of public-school teachers over their pupils. Madison Page, a student of the high school, absented himself from his class for several days while preparing for a debate in a school society. When commanded by the principal to return, he refused and was suspended, but notified that he might return on severing his connection with the society for the rest of the year. Both Page and his father applogized for the former's absence, but on the ground that his personal liberty was attacked demurred to his leaving the society and applied for a writ of mandamits compelling the board and principal to permit his return to school.

COAST RECORD "THE CRIME OF A CENTURY.

Where Judge Murphy Went Wrong.

He Should not Have Prevented Its Perpetration.

A Supreme Court Decision on Personal Freedom.

Evidence Against the Alleged Sa-Mrs. Davidson's Case.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—The Supreme Court has decided that Judge Murphy erred in restraining W. R. Daily from producing his play, "The Crime of a Century," during the Durant trial. The court declared that it was an unwarranted interference with the right of speech guaranteed by the Constitution, and orders the annulment of the order. "The Crime of a Century" of the order. "The Crime of a Century" was a play based on the story of the Durrant murders, and Dally attempted to produce it at one of the local thes ters while the Durrant trial was in progress. Judge Murphy ordered the play stopped, and threatened to send the manager and actors to jail for conempt of court if they persisted in prolucing the play.

The Supreme Court says: "We are entirely clear that the court had no jurisdiction to make the order, for such an order was an attempted infringements upon the rights guar-arited to every citizen by that section of the Constitution which says: 'Every citizen may freely speak, write and publish his sentiments, being responsible for the abuse of that right, and no law shall be passed to restrain or abridge the liberty of the press.'

"It is evident," said the court, "that this right cannot be abused until it is exercised, and before it is exercised there can be no responsibility."
The order of the trial court was, in effect, one commanding the petitioner not to commit contempt of court, and such a practice is novel in the extreme.

HORSEMAN MALONEY'S SUIT.

Wants Fifty Thousand Dollars Dam

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.-- J. H Maloney, the horseman, who is named as co-respondent in the Marceau dias co-respondent in the Marceau divorce case, commenced suit today through his attorney, Charles F. Hanlon, to recover $50,000 damages from Theodore C. Marceau, the photographer. The present litigation has no bearing on the matters involved in the divorce suit, but is the outcome of Maloney's arrest in March, 1885, at the instigation of the defendant.

Maloney had some work done at Marceau's gallery and a bill for $225 for work which he says he did not order was presented to Maloney. He refused to pay it. Maloney was arrested as he was about to leave town, and, in order to avoid delay, paid the bill under protest. Recently Maloney obtained judgment against Marceau for the amount he paid under protest.

Racing Stakes-Won by El Pri

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.) SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—The Racing Stakes for two-year-old fifties was run off at Bay District today, thirteen youngsters facing the flag. Fleur de Lis, a handsome brown filly by Imp. St. Maxim-Fleurette and owned by the El Primero stables, was played for a "good thing," being backed from 15 to 1 to 4 to 1. She fully justified the confidence reposed in her-by winning handily from Naglee Burk's filly Dura, who was favorite. Magnet, Dan Honig's crack, added another victory to his credit by winning the five and a half furlongs handicap. Sallie Clicquot was second. Magnet and Snowdown were the only winning favorites, two second choloes and three outsiders securing the other events.

Six furlongs: Ruinart won, Pollock second, Jack Atkins third; time 1:16.

One mile, inside course: Tar and Tartar won, Sea Spray second, May Day third; time 1:46.

The racing stakes, four furlongs: Fleur de Lis won, Dura second, Rowen B. third; time 0:49½.

One mile: Lobengula won, Sir Vassar second, Yankee Doodle third; time 1:4%.

Five and a half furlongs: Maxnet SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.

Five and a half furlongs: Magnet won, Sallie Clicquot second, Silver State third; time 1:07½.

Seven furlongs: Babe Murphy won, Rey del Bandidos second, Charm third; time 1:28.

Fire at Gypsum City, Kan.

Fire at Gypsum City, Kan.

SALINA (Kan..) March 24.—Fire started in the postoffice at Gypsum City, ten miles south of here, this morning, and has already destroyed a large part of the business district. A strong wind is blowing, and if the flames cross Main street the greater part of the town will be wiped out, as it is entirely without fire protection.

The Grant Statue.

NEW YORK, March 24.—The formal unveiling and transfer to the city by the Grant Monument Association of the Grant statue is set for April 25. Extensive preparations have been made for the ceremonies of the unveiling. President Stewart L. Woodford will formally present the status to the city. Gen. Horace Porter will deliver an oration. The entire Second Brigade will attend, as well as a large number of civil and military bodies. Gen. Grant's grandson, Ulysses S. Grant, the son of Col. Fred Grant, will unveil the statue.

Judgment Against the Santa Fe.

NEW YORK, March 24.—Just as the office of the County Clerk was closing for the day, a judgment for $33,549,-280 was filed against the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé Rallroad in favor of the Union Trust Company, as trustees, for the holders of the first-mortgage bonds. The amount is for a deficiency judgment obtained in February last against the railroad company in Kansas.

(San Francisco Examiner:) The for-mal charge of Simon Raten with the murder of two Japanese, with the ap-narently convincing proof of his critimurder of two Japanese, with the apparently convincing proofs of his guilt, makes a bitter commentary on the benefits of the pardon bureau as a part of our system for encouraging crime. Raten murdered Sheriff Lansing in Sacramento county in 1884, and narrowly escaped lynching. He was tried, convicted and sentenced to be hanged, but before sentence, could be carried out Gov. Stoneman commuted the punishment to imprisonment for life. Not to be outdone in generosity, Gov. Markham cut down the time to sixteen years, nominal sentence, which under the Goodwin act released him at the end of ten years. The first use Raten made of his liberty was to return to a career of orime, and now two innocent lives have paid the penalty of the leniency shown him. The responsibility for this bloodshed should rest heavily on the men who secured the release of the murderer. But for their interference the world would have been rid of a cruel criminal, and two peaceful, industrious men would be alive in his place. The man who interferes to save a murderer from punishment is morally responsible for some of the murders that follow. The way to suppress murder is to hang those who kill their fellow-men. Where this is done promptly there is little bloodshed.

HIS HEROIC DECISION.

OMANCE JUST DISCLOSED IN A

Pride that Made Two Hearts

Admiration for the heroic is so uni versally felt that, the romance under-lying the experience of Jules Garrison, a travesty artist, whose act last week at the Orpheum excited much favorable the Orpheum excited much favorable comment, acquires peculiar interest. Some years ago in a Texas city young Garrison made the acquaintance of Mildred Henley, the reigning belle of the city. Garrison was an actor of rare accomplishments and a gentleman whose excellent qualities were recognized by all who knew him. His position socially however was far below tion socialty, however, was far below that of Miss Henley. Her father was one of the solid men of the piace, a typical gentleman of the old school. rich, polished in appearance, and proud of the professional and social distinction that he enjoyed, but proudest of all of his daughter. The young people were mutually attracted and spent much time in each other's society. Unaccustomed to parental retraint, and trained to regard herself mistress of her own actions, Miss Henley did not allow the difference in their social positions to influence her in the least in her relations with Garrison. At home and in public she modestly permitted him to pay her such attentions as soon aroused the fears of her father, that a serious attachment was springing up between the young people. To this he was opposed, and diligently endeavored to divert his daughter's mind from her youthful admirer.

But admiration had ripened into love and the twain were not to be separated so easily. Despite the solicitations of her family, Miss Henley decided that she would honor with her hand the man who already possessed her heart. Steadfastly the lovers clung to each other, and every obstacle was castastide finally when they were married. Nominal peace was established between the husband and the parents of the young bride, and it seemed that as the old people became acquainted with the sterling qualities of young Garrison they might in reality become reconciled to the match. Outwardy they did, and all went well for a time, the youthful couple being more and more convinced of the wisdom of their choice and more thoroughly united in sentiment.

In course of time circumstances made it necessary for the young man tion socially, however, was far below that of Miss Henley. Her father wa and more thoroughly united in sentiment.

In course of time circumstances made it necessary for the young man to do something to earn a living for himself and wife. Possibly the father-in-law was not so ready to extend a helping hand to the husband of his daughter as they would have liked for him to be, or, being of an independent spirit, they may have felt that they would ask no assistance that was not freely extended. So Garrison went forth to work at his profession, leaving his wife at home meantime, while he sought to better his fortunes on the stage. He wrote frequently and devotedly of the progress he was making and received as ardent missives in reply as one could ask. But, in course of time, the letters ceased. He kept on writing, but received no replies. Being under contract, and traveling at a distance from home, some time elapsed before he could seek a personal explanation of this silence but, at last, he turned his footsteps homeward. There he was told by Mr. Henley that his wife had died suddenly at the time her letters ceased, and that his letters had accumulated, there being nothing on her letters ceased, and that his letter; had accumulated, there being nothing or nad accumulated, there being nothing on them to show his address.

It was a flimsy tale, but Jules be-lieved it, and made no effort to prove its truth or falsity. Turning back into the world with a heavy heart, he set himself manfully to the task of living out his life, honestly and well, hoping that when his turn should come to pass out into the shadows that he might find his lost love among the spirits of the world beyond. But pas-sion is deadened by the lapse of time, sion is deadened by the lapse of time, and, as the years lengthened, he became reconciled to his lot and finally married again, this time a woman in every way deserving of his love, but of his own station in life, an actress. She was with him here in Los Angeles. Their fidelity to each other was marked, and it seemed that Providence had tried to recompense him for his untimely loss of his first wife by sending to him one worthy to her place in his affections. develop. A lady in the audience fainted. She was a wealthy visitor who had been staying at the Westminster. Her wealth and beauty had been the subject of comment, and it had been noised about that her husband was a millionaire, whose duties in Kentucky prevented him from coming to the Coast at this time. But his wife was here with her maid and the admiration that she awakened among those who met her had no influence upon her demeanor that could have been offensive to her husband. It was learned with much surprise that he was advanced in years. Some said that he was 80 years of age, but that may have been an exaggeration. But his wife had fainted in the theater, and curiosity was aroused thereby. In the ladies' dressing-room she quickly recovered, and sent at once for Garrison, Wondering at the request he came to her call, and saw as one risen from the dead, the wife of his youth. She had grown older, but more fair, and in her face he could see the love-light shading as it shone in those other days, when they were enjoying their honeymoon in Texas.

Staggered by the apparition, which he finally became convinced was in-

Improper Novels.

(Edward Fuller in Lippincott's:) But if the didagtic novel offends against the laws of art, the pseudo-realistic novel offends against the laws of art, the pseudo-realistic novel offends against the laws of decency. One is amazed sometimes at the frequency with which, in an age that shudders at the outspokenness of Shakespeare and shrinks from the plain-dealing of Fielding, stories only to be described as ineffably nasty are admitted to some of the chastest drawing-room tables. Sometimes these stories are written by young girls, who prattle with naive audacity of things they ought not to know; sometimes they are written by grown women, who believe in emancipating their sex by depriving it of modesty; sometimes they are written by men, who have the hysterical tendencies of women or who are base enough to traffic in corruption. By whomever written, they sell; and while they sell they are bound to multiply. I wish we had a literary inquisition—some means of getting together all the novels of this kind known to tion—some means of getting together all the novels of this kind known to exist and burning them with appropri-ate ceremonies in the market place.

W. W. Watson, Leading Real Estate Man, Restored to Health by Paine's Celery Compound.

CHICAGO. March 24.—Mr. W. W. Watson's reputation throughout the West for unerring judgment in the valuation of land has made him foremost among the most conservative, careful class of investors in Chicago.

Unlike many hard-driven business men, the owner of "Alpine Heights," that splendid suburb of Chicago, has not neglected his health on account of his exacting business. The following unrequested statement from Mr. strength, fresh nervous, weak and deblittated, get new form the property of the unhealthy atmosphere and make things bright and cheerful again.

It is the only spring redting and despondency, that need only Paine's celery compound to banish the unhealthy atmosphere and make things bright and cheerful again.

It is the only spring remedy universally prescribed by physicians. It makes people well by the prescribed by physicians. It makes people well by the prescribed by physicians. It makes people well by the prescribed by physicians. It makes people well by the prescribed by physicians and the prescribed by physicians. It makes people well by the prescribed by physicians in the unhealthy atmosphere and make things bright and cheerful again.

It is the only spring remedy universally by the prescribed by physicians. It makes people well by the prescribed by physicians in the unhealthy atmosphere and make the unhealthy atmosphere and health on account of his exacting business. The following unrequested statement from Mr. Watson shows how consistent with his lifelong, careful, conscientious and successful business habits has been his attention to getting well. He states in the Times-Herald:

"Upon the recommendation of a friend, I used Paine's celery compount for headaches, constipation, indigestion and loss of sleep, and found it all it was recommended to be. I suffer no more from headaches, sleep soundly at night, and am now in perfect health. This is the only medicine that I have ever taken for these complaints which has benefited me at all.

W. W. WATSON,

W. W. WATSON,
"No. 225 Dearborn street." "No. 225 Dearborn street."

Busy men and women are apt to think there is always time to get well.

The fact that only one person in a hundred dies of old age shows how recklessly men and women postpone attending to their health and allow it to go to pieces while they devote themselves heart and soul to affairs that are triffing in comparison. Wives and mothers have no greater duty than to see that those dear to them do not become so absorbed in the work of providing for the household as to lose their health and shorten their days.

No more thoughful step could be taken during the spring days that are now here than during the spring days that are now here than to urge such tired and often irritable home providers to take Paine's celery compound.

the nervous, weak and debilitated, get new strength, fresh nervous energy and a purer, more vigorous blood supply from Paine's celery compound.

This most valuable nerve and brain invigorator and restorer practically demonstrates the life-long conviction of its eminent discoverer, Prof. Phelps, M.D., Lia.D., of Dartmouth College, Prof. Phelps was for a long time convinced that sound nutrition was the keystone of firm health, and that where there were signs of poorly nourished nerve tissues, and of thin, pale-colored blood, some means must be devised to supply these deficiencies briskly and rapidly. Prof. Phelps prepared Paine's celery compound on this basis. It has proved an invigorator, strengthener and a great spring purifier, such as the world has never-enjoyed before our day.

Tomorrow, or next day, or the day after is never enjoyed before our day.

Tomorrow, or next day, or the day after is not soon enough to look about getting rid of weakness or disease. Take Paine's celery compound today. There is no time equal to these early spring days for throwing off poor health. There are few persons who do not need to take a spring remedy.

Many not downright slot, but there

Many not downright sick, but tired or alling, would be immensely benefited by taking Paine's celery compound, especially at this particularly favorable season of the year. This great compound will banish that tired feeling, cleanse the blood and regulate the nerves.

PRICES OF FARM PRODUCTS.

A comparison of the prices of farm products on January 1, 1892, with the prices of like products on January 1, 1896, affords a striking contrast between the effects of McKinley protection and those of the Wilson-Gorman substitute therefor. On January 1, 1892, the McKinley law had been in operation fifteen months. On January 1. 1896, the Wilson law had been in operation sixteen months. Under the operations of the Wilson law factories have been closed and wages in those still in operation have been reduced. Under the operations of the McKinley law wages were good and there was employment for everybody. As a consequence the class of people who buy from their earnings, the products of the farmers, are unable to pay such prices as they did when they were receiving reasonable wages and constant employment.

This has been the claim constantly it is safe to predict that William Mc-Kinley will be nominated for President by the Republican convention at St. of the friends of protection, that good wages paid to American workmen en-Louis:

THE PEOPLE'S CHOICE.

It is a plain and indisputable fact that William McKinley is the first choice of a vast majority of the Republican voters of the United States. for President. If there were an entire absence of manipulation and wirepulling, he would certainly be nomin ated by the Republican National Convention on the first ballot, and probably by acclamation, before the first ballot could be completed. Even his opponents virtually concede this. The desperate methods to which they are resorting to defeat him, are a significant acknowledgment of his strength.

Maj. McKinley is pre-eminently the candidate of the people. In seeking to compass his defeat, the political bosses are going counter to the wishes and the demands of the great mass of Republican voters throughout the na-This fact should be borne steadily in mind. The steady and rapid growth of Mo Kinley sentiment is as remarkable as it is pronounced and unmistakable. There is even reason to believe that in spite of all that the Platts, Quays, and other bosses can do, he will re-ceive the nomination on the first bal-lot, and not improbably by acclama-tion. ### A BLOATED CORPORATION. And They Thought They Would

Four men stood together on the corner of Second street and Broadway a little after midnight. From their double-jointed conversation they all seemed to have imbibed deeply of the drink whose future is drunk, and each drink whose tuture is drunk, and each leaned heavily against the breath of the man opposite to him. Between gasps they gazed silently at the wiggling rails of the electric car-line. Suddenly one of them took a spasmodic bite out of the solid silence that was glowly appelling them. Ho said. modic bite out of the solid silence that was slowly engulfing them. He said, "'Lectric comp'ry'sh bloated corporashun!" To this all present silently assented. The speaker then continued his harangue. "Lesh shtop nex' car'at comesh 'long. All shtand on track. Car can't goby 'thout we know't."

This brilliant idea was halled with as much enthusiasm as the somewhat

With careful but unsteady steps the four approached the intersection of the rails, and each man took up his temporary abode in the little square formed by the rails crossing. Here they all showed some disposition to drop themselves upon the cold, cruel surface of the street, while one man sang a dismal song to the effect that he was a daily once but now he resembled a

When it dawned upon the sober young man what they meant, he informed them with much eloquence that the last car had gone about one hour previously. The Opposition to McKinley Shown Up in Its True Colors.

He Will Win in Spite of It, Says the New York World.

n Array of Figures which Fully Warrants the Prediction—He Will Have 564 Votes Out of the Total of 909.

Walter Wellman, Washington correspondent of the Chicago Times-Herald (Dem.) writes to that paper, under date of March 12, a concise and somewhat graphic account of the manner in which the bosses are at work, with the object of defeating McKinley. The article is "Was there ever such a case of over smartness? The bosses thought they could run the country. It was as early as the middle of last summer when they began to put their heads together. They met at the Fifth-avenue Hotel from time to time, and at Brighton Beach or Long Beach. 'All we have to do,' said they to themselves, 'is to stand tothey to themselves, is to stand together and we can name the next President. We want a man whose feet are on the ground, and whose head is not in the clouds. We want a man who will stand by us. No more Clevelands, no more Harrisons. We'll all go together, name the man and have good times once more. This time we will start early enough. That was the trouble with us four years ago. We didn't go to work till Harrison had entrenched himself everywhere, and then it was too late for us to beat him. But see how nearly we overthrew him at Minneapolis, in spite of his control of the government, in spite of his control of the government, in spite of his southern delegations, bought with patronage, in spite of the fact that we had no satisfactory candidate to oppose him with. This time we will take no chances. We will go in early, and sweep the deck. The first thing we'll do is to make Tom Reed believe we are for him. That will enable us to capture the patronage of the us to capture the patronage of the House of Representatives, and on this we will build up our machine.'

lieve we are for him. That will enable us to capture the patronage of the House of Representatives, and on this we will build up our machine."

"The programme was carried out. The original coterie of bosses, composed of Platt, Quay and Clarkson, was enlarged as rapidly as possible. Manley and Sam Fessenden were taken in as the representatives of Reed. Hobart of New Jersey joined. Gen. Alger of Michigan was urged to come in, but he had given his pledge to McKinley, and held aloof. John Tanner was coddled, but the willy John gave only conditional promises. Henry Payne, Spooner and Sawyer of Wisconsin were played for, but Mr. Payne was ill at Carlsbad, and Spooner and Sawyer did not like the looks of the old anti-Harrison combination, which they had fought at Minneapolis. Pitt Kellogg was started at work in Louislana. Wright Cuney of Galveston was reliedupon to take care of Texas, Carter of Montana was angled for, but Mr. Carter was not born yesterday, and he kept out of the combination. So did Steve Elkins and many other shrewd politicians who were invited to waik into the combine's web. There were sundry flirtations with Senator-eject Foraker, in which all the advances were made by the bosses, and Mr. Foraker went back to Ohlo. His reply is found in his speech to the Columbus convention.

"One thing the bosses did succeed in, and that was capturing the organization of the House of Representatives. This victory turned their heads. They patted themselves on the back and magined they could do anything. We are the people, said they to themselves; who can stand against our mighty combination?" At first the bosses only smiled at the popular movement for McKinley. They knew a trick worth two of that. We don't care about these popular movements, they said, in their superior way. "Let the McKinley fellows do the shouting—we will pick up the delegates right under their noses." This self-satisfied smartness was very impressive. It led all the hangers-on to imitate their chiefs. The veriest tyro in politics, confident of th vill. "But the McKinley movement grew and grew. It did not seem to need much encouragement, as the people were doing it themselves. Where encouragement was needed, and direction and organization, they were given. Both of these facts angered the bosses over-They could not vent their spite on the people, but they resented the ap-pearance of McKinley's friends in the field of practical politics. They believed field of practical politics. They believed that was a little monopoly reserved to themselves. Something had to be done. So the favorite-son scheme was hatched. That, the bosses were confident, would do the business. It would keep McKinley down to something like 300 votes. It would bring on collision between the McKinley people and these State candidates, and their friends, and would produce a bitterness which would solidify the field against the Ohio man and make his success impossible. For a time this was worked for all it was would produce a bitterness which would solidify the field against the Ohio man and make his success impossible. For a time this was worked for all it was worked for all it was worked for all it was tworth. But it has failed, too. It has not stemmed the tide.

"Two more cards remain to be played, and then the opposition game is at the end of its resources. These are the plot to pack the convention by means of contesting delegations from the Southern States, and the scheme to start a personal warfare on McKinley for the purpose of producing a bitter factional fight, which will induce the party, for prudence sake, to name a compromise candidate. It is fair to say that neither of these movements commends itself to any considerable number of respectable Republicans. Both are regarded as unfair and as ineffectual. A few of the more desperate bosses, who staked their political fortunes and reputations on the success of the combination, are the only men of note who are willing to stoop to such methods. They formed their coalition voluntarily, deliberately, confidently, even joyously. They were sure they could carry the whole country with their dozen hands. They have only themselves to blame for their discomiture.

"In Washington political opinion

"In Washington political to the settling down to the "In Washington political opinion is settling down to the conviction that McKinley is almost as good as named. Only a revulsion or a revolution can beat him now. He is already assured of something like 400 votes on the first ballot, or within fifty of a clear majority. When the convention meets he will probably have even more than this. No successful combination can be formed against him, for he is the second choice of from one-third to one-half of the delegates who are at first to vote for other candidates. Shift the field ever so little, drop out a favorite son or two other candidates. Shift the fiction is a straight of the fiction o than two ballots in the St. Louis cynvention.

"This is not the judgment of the friends of McKinley alone. These facts are privately and sorrowfully admitted by the champions of other candidates. Speaker Reed's friends, for instance, have all but given up the fight. They complain bitterly of the tactics of the bosses, and admit that if was a mistake for the speaker ever to put himself under the wing of the 'combine,' They have brought him little strength, and have only succeeded in identifying him with men and methods not approved by the masses of the Republican party. It is only fair to say Mr. Reed is not to be blamed. He was in a position where he could not help himself.

"This ante-convention campaign of 1886 is regarded as one of the most remarkable affairs of the sort ever seen in this country. It has surprised the friends as well as the opponents of McKinley. The Ohioan's amazing popularity with the masses of the people upset all political calculations. It is a great tribute to the man, but a greater one to the power of an idea in which the people have a faith that becomes stronger with adversity. Tt is an ill wind, and so on, said Speaker Reed to a friend recently; 'the hard times are making McKinley President of the United States."

M'KINLEY WILL GET IT.

He Will Be the Nominee of the Re-

He Will Be the Nominee of the Republican National Convention.

Such is the unequivocal declaration of the New York World of March 16, which employs these further head-lines over the article reproduced below:

"The West and South Almost Solid for Him—The Only Man Before the Convention not a Local or Faction Candidate—Opposed by Bosses, but Supported by the Rank and File of the Party."

William McKinley will be the Republican candidate for President.

Whether his nomination will be made by acclamation or on the first, second, or after many ballots, cannot be foretold, as the National Convention does not meet at St. Louis for three months and two days. But McKinley is already the chosen candidate for the West and South. That combination has never been beaten in a national convention. He will have practically the solid delegations from Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas and Wisconsin, and nine-tenths of all the Southern delegates. He will be opposed by Gov. Morton, as a local favorite in New York; by Reed, as the fovorite of New England; by Allison, the first choice of Iowa, and possibly Davis, of Minnesota. None of these candidates will have strong following in any McKinley States, while McKinley not only has the West and South almost united in his favor but he has strength also where Gov. Morton, Reed and Allison are merely local favorites.

Recent events make this plain. Senator Cullom was formally presented as the candidate of his own State, Illinois District, to the surprise of every one, promptly instructed for McKinley, and sixteen counties have now pledged their delegates to McKinley.

Gov. Morton has been indorsed by the unanimous voice of last year's Republican State Convention as New York's choice for President, and the convention to be held next week will renew the pledge; but the Eric itsrict has bolted to McKinley, and the result of the mergetic work of Morton and Quay missionaries.

gates to the Republican National Convention have now been chosen, but it is already plain that, while the field marshals of the Republican party—the Platts, Quays, Clarksons and others—are all against McKinley, the masses of the Republican voters demand his man as they are now calling for Mc-Kinley. That they will make him their can-didate no longer admits of doubt.

KANSAS ON RECORD. McKinley Her First Choice-Not Second-choice Year.

Kansas is for McKinley. From the Missouri River to the Colorado State missouri River to the Colorado State line, and from the "golden beit" to the border in Indian Territory the expression is the same. It is always in favor of the Ohio man. Perhaps Allison ranks next in popularity, but the reports from the State indicate that this ranks next in popularity, but the reports from the State indicate that this isinot a "second choice" year with Kansas Republicans. Five of the seven districts—ten delegates—have already instructed delegates to St. Louis to keep on voting for McKinley to the last. At the State convention held at Wichita six delegates-at-large were chosen and outfitted with their instructions. The resolution is in undisguised terms, as follows:

"We recognize with pride and comfort the spirit of growing Americanism, and in William McKinley the incarnetion of that spirit, the defender of the American home, the protector of American industries and labor, the embodiment of the republicanism of Washington the father. Lincoln taylor, and Grant the defender of the republic. Representing the people, we woke a public damand in heraby in washington the factor, Emission the republic. Representing the people, we voice a public demand in hereby instructing the delegates to the Republican National Convention chosen by us, and in an appeal to the delegates from the respective Congress districts, to vote and use all just means for his nomination to the Presidency of the United States.

"Recognising the long continued, service of a member of the Republican National Committee and his admitted influence in that body for his State, we hereby instruct the delegation chosen by this convention to continue Cyrus Leiand as a member from Kansas of that committee."

and braved the blizzard last night to do honor to McKinley and to stand up and be counted for him.

It was a significant gathering. It meant more than an assembling of 1000 men. It has a deeper meaning than a mere political mass-meeting. It was a gathering of protest. It was a declaration of independence. It sounded a note of warning to the bosses and spoke out full and clear in favor of henesty, fairness and right representation. It was heavy with the voice of danger to those who seek to ride over the wishes of the people.

And beyond all that, above all local squabbles and internal dissension, it stands unmistakably plain and open as an index to the feelings of the great mass of Republicans in Buffalo, McKinley is the choice. He is their favorite. They want their delegates to be strong supporters of the Pride of Ohio. They have demanded it. They kiniey is the choice. He is their favorite. They want their delegates to be strong supporters of the Pride of Ohio. They have demanded it., They demanded it last night. Their demand was voiced in no uncertain, weak or wavering words. It is a plain, unequivocal statement. It is the voice of the people of the Republican party and the leaders will hesitate to ignore it.

(St. Louis Globe-Democrat:) There is talk in some quarters of a stampede in favor of McKinley, so as to nominate him on the first ballot in the St. Louis change of votes, mostly from compliments to favorite sons to some substantial candidate, before the result of the first ballot is announced. This was possible until a rule was adopted with a view to defeating Mr. Blaine in Cincinnati in 1876, and, which has been readopted by every convention since. Mr. Cessna of Pennsylvania was at that time a member of Congress. He had been sorely disappointed by Speaker Blaine's refusal to make him chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, and he went to Cincinnati to "get even" with Mr. Blaine. He knew that the tactics of the Blaine men included a stampede and a nomination on the first ballot. He secured his own appointment as a member of the convention's Committee on Rules, and was made its chairman. In this capacity he reported a rule to the effect that after a State ment as a member of the convention's committee on Rules, and was made its chairman. In this capacity he reported a rule to the effect that after a State had announced its vote, that vote could not be changed until the next succeeding ballot. The rule was adopted without dissent. Its point was not debated until an attempt was made to violate it. It did its work very effectively, and was really the most potent factor in the defeat of Mr. Blaine. It is now a part of the common law of Republican conventions, and, under its operation, there can be no stampede in favor of any particular candidate. That is to say, no candidate can be nominated by a change of votes before the result of the first ballot is announced. To be nominated on the first ballot a candidate must have a majority of the votes of the convention over and above all given as compliments to favorite sons.

A Newspaper with a History.

(New York Mail and Express.) The Repository of Canton, O., has a history which is unique in newspaperdom. For nearly sixty years it remained in the ownership and management of one man, John Saxton, the grandfather of Mrs. William McKinley. He founded the Repository in 1815. Waterloo was fought in June of that year, and in September Mr. Saxton gave it to his readers as the latest news from the seat of war. In September, 1870, the old editor was still at his desk to publish the news of Sedan on the very day of the battle. It thus fell to him to chronicle the fall of two Napoleons and to witness a most unparalleled development in newspaper methods. The Repository is still published at the old stand by George B. Frease, a young and hustling newspaper man, who, while retaining all that is valuable of the old traditions, has made of it a thoroughly up-to-date daily, possessing a new press, the best facilities and 20,000 readers. It is Republities and 20,000 readers. It is Republities and 20,000 readers. Kentucky's Preference.

Kentucky's Preference.

A correspondent of the Columbus, (O.,) Dispatch, writing to that paper from Williamsburg, Ky., under date of March 17, says: "Your correspondent has just made a tour throughout this (White) county and finds that nearly every Republican in the county—leaders and masses—is for McKinley for President. Several influential men say they would gladly be for Bradley if they thought he stood any chance to be nominated in the St. Louis convention, but as there is no show for him they do not desire to waste their support, as McKinley seems to be the best suited for the honored position. He is by far in the lead in this and other mountain counties. It is quite safe to say that fully 95 per cent, of the Republicans of the twenty southeast counties in Kentucky are for the Ohio man."

Candidate of the Machine.

(Indianapolis News:) The Platt machine has made a reputation—a very great reputation—for "practical" politics. The country at large has watched its workings in times past. And the more loudly the machine protests its sincerity the more suspicious the country becomes. And the fact is, that Mr. Morton is in the hands of the machine. Outside of the New York machine, and a very few men in other States in the closest touch with that organism, nobody has been advocating Mr. Morton as a candidate pure and simple is one thing. Mr. Morton as a candidate pure and pressed by the Hon. Tom Platt is quite another thing. And it is the latter that the country is called upon to contemplate.

The Candidate of the G.A.R. Boys The old soldiers in Ontario are a unit in their declaration for McKinley for President. "He is the candidate of unit in their declaration for McKinley for President. "He is the candidate of the G. A. R. boys all over the country," asserted an old veteran, "and Californians owe him an especial debt of gratitude. Were he in power today we would have protection for our products, and we would not be obliged to market our raisins at a loss, as some of us have done. There's something in the name of McKinley," he continued, "that makes us old fellows feel the thrill of patriotism again. Were he President—as he will be—American patriotism will mean something again."

Campaign Crumbs (Cleveland Plain Dealer:) There is every assurance that Senator Allison will continue to fill the position of presidential understudy.

Mr. Grosvenor predicts also that Indiana will elect McKinley delegates in thirteen of its Congressional districts.

(Columbus, (O., Dispatch:) Describing the present home life of ex-Gov. McKinley, a newspaper correspondent says that the whole lower floor of the house in which the ex-Governor, and Mrs. McKinley reside is occupied by the clerks and other workers in the Presidential literary bureau. The family apartments are on the floors above. Throughout the day and evening clerks, stenographers and typewriters convert the entire ground elevation of the residence into a veritable bechive of industry. Truly, the ex-Governor is having a quiet and restful time, since he has retired to private life and resumed the practice of law in Canton.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

Mr. Guinn's Old Los Angeles LOS ANGELES, March 24.—To the Editor of The Times:) I read with great interest Mr. Guinn's article on the "Streets of Los Angeles." He has "filled a long-felt want" in regard to the information given concerning the streets of this city, and partic information given concerning the early streets of this city, and particularly the history of their nomenciature. This community owes him a debt for his able and interesting article. But Mr. Guinn is in error in his remarks on the buill-fights and bear-battings in the earlier days of Los Angeles, when he states that "Bob Ingersoll says the Puritans prohibited bear-batting, not on account of its cruelty to the bear, but because of the pleasure it gave the people." Mr. Ingersoll was still in roundabouts when Lord Macaulay wrote in his History of England, (Vol. 1, Chapter 2;) "The Puritans hated bear-batting, not because it gave pleasure to the spectators." If Mr. Ingersoll in any of his discourses has uttered, or published, what Mr. Guinn quotes as original with the free-thinker, then it is evident that Mr. Ingersoll absorbed the statement from Macaulay. J. C. FLETCHER.

She Tells Her Story to Willing Chicago Ears.

The fact was recently noted in The Times that Lady Sholto Douglas had packed her blcycle bloomers and hied away toward Chicago, leaving Lord Sholto here with his congenial friends. That little song-and-dance artist of noble blood (by marriage) has arrived safely is thus chronicled in an Associated Press dispatch from Chicago:

CHICAGO, March 24.—Unheralded and unattended by her husband, Lady Sholto Douglas arrived in Chicago yesterday from Los Angeles, and, entering a carriage, betook herself to the home of a friend on Dearborn avenue. Lord Sholto's business and other engagements are said to have detained him in the West for a few days. Lady Sholto's unexpected appearance in Chicago was expained by her to a reporter:

"I have one or two business engagements in Chicago," she said, "and I hurried on for the purpose of having them canceled. I am to accompany Lord Sholto Douglas to England next month, and I fear that preparations incidental to my trip must necessarily interfere with my Chicago and eastern engagements."

Pressed for her reason in suddenly decidental to my trip must necessarily interfere with my Chicago and eastern engagements."

Pressed for her reason in suddenly deciding upon her trip to England, Lady Douglas hesitatingly stated that Lord Sholto had recently been invited by his father, the Marquis of Queensberry, to return to England and to bring his wife with him. Pending the arrival of Lord Sholto, Lady Sholto will remain in comparative retirement. It is said the couple will sail for England on April 11.

When Lord Sholto Douglas read this dispatch yesterday, he arched his aristocratic eyebrows in surprise, and declared there must be some mistake about the matter, for he really does not intend to go to London, dontcherknow, for he is going to discover Arizona and make a cayuse real sore by riding it over the Territory's sandy wastes. From sundry remarks the young lord (by brevet) let drop, it seems that his pretty little wife must be mistaken about his being called home to show her to the Marquis.

That young man who fell unconscious in the street yesterday after taking a drink of ice water is not likely to do so injudicious a thing again when over-heated. The improper use of the fluid is a potent cause of distress in the East, where hot weather is a greater temptation to such imprudence. But even California will not suffer too great liberties with her climate.

A few days ago the papers published accounts of many sales on execution of land in the Alessandro irrigation dis-trict about to take place. It seems this land is the property of the Moreno and Alessandro Town Company, and not of farmers, which makes it less of a hardship on that district. The town pany was one of the inner wheel in the Bear Valley Irrigation Company.

Now that the complete list of those who are to be in attendance on the Queen of La Flesta is made public, lation as to the identity speculation as to the identity of the queen herself is again rife. That city is indeed fortunate which possesses so many lovely women from whom to select. Homage would be cheerfully rendered to either of those whose names have been mentioned in connection with the office.

Several weather prophets of considerable local standing—notwithstanding the old saw to the contrary—say that the new moon is a dry one, but that it is gradually assuming the form of a wet one, and will no doubt bring rain in less than ten days. It is to be hoped that the predictions are good, and that we may have three or four inches more of rain before the long summer season

Los Angeles and Southern California generally are experiencing unusually tropical weather just now. While occasionally there have been days in past ns as warm as a few of those lately endured, they are certainly very infrequent. But visitors from beyond the Great Divide will excuse this freaky disposition of the weather on this , when they reflect on the floods and blissards of recent occurrence in the East. Surely such mildness is preferable to typical March weather along

Roof gardens may be all right in densely-populated places like New York City or London, but it is absurd to speak of their establishment in Los Angeles, the city of flowers, where none are so poor that they cannot train roses about the door and revel in the bloom that nature everywhere is anxious to impart. Roof gardens? Bosh! They are a mere apology for floral culture, a makeshift, a last resort for aesthetic dwellers in tenth-floor attics, whose souls hunger for the grassy plats, so dear to memory, and for the beauties of the florist. There is an ordinance of the city which insists that buildings of a certain character shall be provided with proper fire escapes. The ordinance was adopted many months ago, but the buildings which are not yet provided with these measures of safety are numbered by the score. Perhaps the ordi-nance cannot be enforced, and its adop-tion may have been simply a "bluff," but it would be refreshing to see a strong and sturdy effort made to carry out its provisions, which are acknowl-edged to be what the situation de-that will shortly be brought before the public. It is claimed for this proposed hotel that it is closer in, more picturesque, and is already farther adcase than any of the other projects vanced toward being a financial success than any of the other projects recently placed before the public. It is to be hoped that from out of the numerous propositions on paper something of a definite character in the shape of a first-class tourist hotel may soon materialise, so that Los Angeles, the leading city of Southern California, may no longer be behind such smaller places as San Diego and Monterey in the matter of hotel accommodation.

IN SOCIAL SPHERES.

Mrs. John Bradbury's luncheon yesterday for Miss Page of New York was charming, as the affairs at that pretty home always are, and the table decorations were exceedingly artistic. The centerplece was a tail out-glass wase resting upon a round, silver-framed mirror, and holding a mass of purple fleur-de-lis and maidenhair ferns. At either side were huge bows of broad satin ribbon, matching in shade the soft purple of the flowers, two or three of which were caught in them. At either end were branching silver candelabra holding purple candles. The color of the flowers was repeated as far as possible, in the different courses. Mrs. Bradbury looked exceedingly beautiful in a gown of white, the skirt of pompadour silk, broaded in pink roses, and the walst of white satin, covered with white accordion-pleated chiffon, and a deep bertha of exquisite duchesse lace, over which fell a row of sable tails. The guests were: Miss Page, Mrs. Hancock Banning, Mrs. O. W. Childs, Mrs. Lyman of Pasadena, Miss Mary Banning, Miss Cella O'Connor, Miss Brown of Pasadena, Mrs. Miner and Miss Maggle Winston. STANFORD BOYS ENTERTAINED.

The Stanford boys were delightfully entertained yesterday afternoon at a tea given them at the residence of Mrs. Frank Burnett, by the Misses Beatrice Chandler, Genevieve Smith, May Corson, Sadie Libby, Lou Winder, the Misses Burnett and Miss Harding of Oakland. The young ladies all looked very charming in dainty gowns of white, with ribbons of the college crimson. The rooms glowed with the same gay color. Red roses were massed about the drawing-room, and in the reception hall and dining-room, poinsettias, red carnations, garlands of smilax and red satin ribbons were used with pretty effect. The porch was converted into a bower with branches of peppers and roses, and made cosy with chairs and rugs, while in one corner was placed a large bowl of fruitade. Warren's orchestra discoursed music during the afternoon, and dainty refreshments were served by Christopher. The young ladies were assisted by Mmes. Frank Burnett, Shirley Ward, Corson, Ezra Stimson, W. G. Cochran, Barber, Jefferson Chandler and Miss Alden. The members of the clubs so pleasantly entertained were as follows: Messrs. King, Schiacks, Pinkham, Magee, McGuire, Sutherland, Young, Bush, Bartholomew, Hinsdell, the manager, Cochran, Abbott, the leader of the Glee Club, McGrew, McNell, Decker, Schnelder, Sewall, Kaufman, the leader of the "Stanford University March," McChesney, Welch, Wells, the composer of the schottische played last evening, "Moonlight on the Campus;" Dilhon, Wilson and Code.

A THEATER PARTY.

Miss Alden gave a loge party last evening at the entertainment by the Stanford Glee and Mandolin clubs at the Los Angeles Theater, followed by a delightful supper for the young ladies and the collegians at the hostess' cosy home on West Twenty-third street. Her guests were: The Misses Burnett, the Misses Beatrice Chandler, Bessie Bonsall, Lizzle Lewis, Bessie Ellis, Georgia Knight, May Corson, Florence Silent, Miss Allen of San Francisco, and Miss Harding. At the supper, the party was augmented by the Misses Wellborn, the Misses Sara Goodrich, Genevieve Smith, Lou Winder, Georgia Caswell, Harmon Spruance, Marion Jones, Katherine Ellis and the Misses Sprague. The diningroom was bright with decorations in the college color, the hall was pretty with graceful branches of Lady Bankshire roses, and in the drawing-room were effective arrangements of pink roses and carnations. A THEATER PARTY.

CHARITY BALL.

The fifteenth annual charity ball of the German Ladies' Benevolent Society at Turverein Hall, last evening, was a great success, at least five hundred people being present. Arend's Orchestra furnished the music. The hall was gally decorated with bunting, and above the stage were the letters, D.F. U.V., in red, white and blue electric lights. The stage was banked with callas. The Reception Committee consisted of L. Winter, Charles Brode, J. Maier, L. Roeder, Dr. Kurtz, S. Maier and F. O, Cornelius. The Committee on Arrangements was composed of H. Merz, Charles Gollmer, G. F. Grosser, J. Johannsen, and the Floor Committee of L. Herzog, manager, F. Johannsen, F. Messer, W. A. Grosser, L. Breer and F. L. Jahn. The long supper tables were decorated with flowers.

A BIRITHDAY PARTY.

A BIRNTHDAY PARTY.

A birthday party was given Monday evening at the residence of Mrs. Clark on Castelar street, in honor of her son Lonnie's twenty-first birthday, at which his friends presented him with an elegant gold watch. The presentation speech was made by Mr. de Vezino. Music and dancing were enjoyed. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hartman, Mr. and Mrs. Vazer, Miss Hallie Cressp, San Fernando; Miss Teresa Toland of Bakersfield; Miss Nettle W. Walz, and Miss Oille R. Young of Pomons; Ella Payne, the Misses M. Fenton, C. Reese, R. Coulson, Mabel Rawson, Minnie Smith, Grace McGannon, Amy Beatty, and Mmss. B. P. Campbell, R. H. Swinnerton, W. P. W. Martin, J. A. Sturns, V. de Vezino, C. M. Cook, J. Cochran, Fred Smith, Bunice Powell of Richford, Ill.; Lee Payne, Walter E. Nikirk, Fred Griesbach, Guy Capps, Elmer Edmonds, Lee Payne, Jr. A BIRTHDAY PARTY.

HELLER-FLEISHMAN. The wedding of Miss Carrie Heller to Isidor Fleishman of Los Angeles to Isidor Fleishman of Los Angeles took place last Thursday evening, in San Francisco. The bride was gowned in heavy white silk with tulie sleeves and veil, and carried a bouquet of illies of the valley and orange blossoms. The ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Dr. Voorsanger, was followed by a supper at which 150 guests were present.

MUSICAL MENTION.

A swell audience greeted the Stanford Glee and Mandolin clubs at the Los An-geles Theater last evening, and showed Glee and Mandolin clubs at the Los Angeles Theater last evening, and showed appreciation of the college boys' nusto and mirth by encoring every number on the programme, and in several instances declining to be satisfied with one response. The theater had been prettilly decorated with the college crimson, and banking the edge of the stage and trailing with smilax about the boxes and loges were red geraniums and their deep-green foliage. Masses of the vivid blossoms were used about the stage, and the smilax draperies at the rear were caught back with bands of the same flower. Mr. Dillon received a large bunch of red and white roses, tied with red satin ribbons, and the Mandolin Club, after playing the Stanford University March, was presented with a huge basket of pink and white carnations. Charles I. Dillon, the funny man, made an instant hit and the house was loth to let him go. After singing "The Little Nipper," he responded to the first encore with an Irishman's account of how Christopher Columbus discovered America, and after three more enthuslastic recalls he sang another number.

The programme was exceedingly enjoyable. The students, when not on the stage, gathered in little groups about the pretty girls in Miss Alden's party, and those in the boxes occupied by Mr. Fiint's guests, and only left them when 'it came their turn to appear.

The clubs leave the city today, to con tinue their tour through the souther part of the State.

Monday evening, Dr. R. T. Whittlesey, a veterinary surgeon, planned to go to the lodge. He drove down town sey, a veterinary surgeon, panned to go to the lodge. He drove down town from his home and tied his horse, still harnessed to the buggy, in the stable at the rear of his place of business, No. 646 South Broadway. Then he locked the door and went away. When he returned after 1 o'clock in the morning, he found the stable door open and the horse and buggy gone. After much excited hunting, high and low, he found that a policeman had found the horse wandering aimlessly through the streets and had taken it to the Eagle Stables. Dr. Whittlessey declares that while his horse is intelligent it really is not bright enough to untie itself, unlock and open the stable door and take its departure. He believes some thief entered the stable and made off with the horse, afterward taking fright and abandoning the stolen property.

Street-walker Sentenced.

Several weeks ago Officer Matuszkiewiz began to work up a case against Maude Gray, a tall and handsome woman who has yet sunk to the foulest depths of vice. She was arrested on a charge of vagrancy. At first she pleaded not guilty, but when she learned how strong was the proof accumulated against her, she changed her plea to guilty. Yesterday Recorder Rossiter gave her a sixty days sentence, suspended on condition that she would leave Los angeles.

When the Fire Commissioners when the Fire Commissioners meet this morning, they will have before them for consideration a letter which was sent to the Council by Julius Behnke, and by the Council referred to the Fire Commission. I submit the following to your consideration:

"Knowing that an ordinance has been passed which provides that all large buildings should have fire escapes, I humbly call your attention to the fact that St. Vincent's College is, to use a common parlance, a fire trap, without any provision for accident. Though apparently a solid structure, an ordinary step in the dormitory, study hall, or on the stairs shakes the whole building. In case fire should break out at the southend of the college, the boarders of the institution would be hopelessly lost. If caught during the night, as the wooden structure could not withstand long enough to enable their secape. Again, if the north side be in danger the lives of at least four members of the corporation would be at stake. A fire escape, therefore, seems imperatively necessary, and my surprise was great when 'His Honor the Chief' failed to investingate the matter. I suppose the corporation governing this educational institution will not object to the little expense when the safety of the immates is in question.

It is expected that the Fire Commissioners will receive a complaint this morning from the owner of the hay barn on East Ninth street, which recently burned down, to the effect that the property might have been saved, but for the carelessness of a fireman named Pratt. This fireman, it is claimed, used a fire plug at such a distance from the hay barn that the hose could not reach the flames, and the point is made that if the right connection had been made, the loss to property would have been averted. It is expected that the Fire Commis-

The condition of the reservoirs was found to be not of the best, and a report to the Council in the matter will be made by the Board of Health in the near future.

About Some Plumbing Ordinances.

Plumbing Inspector Burgoin is at work gathering data by which he hopes to convince Judge Smith of the Superior Court that his case against Mr. Henderson is valid and proper. Mr. Henderson is valid and proper. Mr. Henderson was recently tried for a violation of the city plumbing ordinance and his attorney made the point that this ordinance was not adopted by the Board of Health, as is required by the State law, but by the City Council. This statement surprised the Plumbing Inspector, and, after investigation of the matter, he inclines to the opinion that, while technically correct, the attorney's statement is not altogether a fact.

The ground upon which the Plumbing Inspector brought his suit was found in a provision of an ordinance approved by the Board of Health and adopted by the Council. February 19. 1884. A new ordinance was adopted by the Council. without consulting the Board of Health, August 5, 1835, but the provision before referred to is incorporated in the later ordinance, hence the Plumbing Inspectar rejects the Idea that the ground of his suit is not justifiable and legal.

case was resumed yesterday morning. On Monday the jury went out over the lands in question, and with them went engineers who explained the working of nature in this particular region, and pointed out how the various profile maps were constructed from the bor-ings of the wells. The whole party was chaperoned by a lawyer from each side, who kept a watchful eye upon the movements of the crowd.

City Attorney Dunn called Fred Eaton up the first thing yesterday morning, to op the first tains yesternay morning, to get some more expert opinion out of him. M. J. Loraine and E. Lownes, well-borers, were called upon to give their testimony in regard to, the various strata encountered in the sinking of well shafts. Gervaise Furcell, a civil engineer, occupied the stand for the best part of the afternoon. Mr. Purcell makes a much lower estimate of the amount of subterranean water than best part of the afternoon. Mr. Purcell makes a much lower estimate of the amount of subterranean water than has been already testified to. He also said that the present river-bed only carries of an amount of water equal to a minimum rainfall, and that all over that amount runs off. The testimony in all the cases was largely of a purely technical nature, important in its bearing on the case, but uninteresting in its gradual development.

Apropos of the determined stand taken by the plaintiff on the subject of the amount of water that flows beneath the surface, Attorney Chapmansaid that to take away from this amount was to detract from the univarse, and that he for one had no intention of abating the creation by one jot or tittle. The case will be resumed this morning, when other evidence as to the value of the land will be introduced. The figures of the plaintiff are likely to be somewhat different from those tendered by the defendant, whose witnesses testified to a man, almost, that the land in question is worth $100 per acre as a whole. As has been said, this estimate will prob-ably be shown to be a very high, not to say extravagant one. many, was admitted to citizenship by Judge McKinley.

fore Judge McKinley and one was committed. The other two will undergo examination today.

Those taken into court yesterday were both veterans of the war. Eugene Barry had received a sunstroke while in service, and has been insane at intervals ever since. Of late, he has beome dangerous and violent, so that he could not be kept at the Soldiers' Home, of which he was an inmate.

Robert Barry was also an old soldier, and formerly a resident of the Soldiers' Home. Of late, he has been living at Pasadene, and is a nervous wreck from inebriety and the effects of a cure he has taken. The physicians decided that he was not insane, however, and he has taken. The physicians decided that he was not insane, however, and he was discharged.

Of the two who will be examined to day, Aaron Abbott is a morphine and cocaine flend, having used the baneful drugs with such dire effect that he is a mental and physical wreck.

A REVERSED DECISION.

Henry Susskind Victorious in the Jewelry Case.

A special telegram was received yes-lerday by the law firm of Wells, Works & Lee, stating that the Supreme Court had reversed Judge McKinley's decis-ion in the case of Henry Susskind vs. A. J. Hall, and remanded the cause for a new trial. The case involves the Wag-ner stock of jewelry, and it is the order taking the jewels from Susskind that is reversed.

Harmony Disturbed. Frank Kramer, a former resident Frank Kramer, a former resident of Harmony, was arraigned yesterday before Justice Young, on the charge of having grievously disturbed the peace of his divorced wife, Mrs. Anna Kramer. Kramer evidently took the divorce to heart, for he formed the somewhat objectionable habit of hanging around the house and making night and day hideous with ear-splitting howls and lurid execrations. Justice Young put a damper on his surging feelings by binding him over to keep the peace.

Ledara O. Swanga was arrested yes terday on the charge of having threat-ened to murder José Silvera at San Pe-dro. It is said that there was, as usual, a woman in the case, and that a Mrs. Martin was the cause of the rumpus between the two men.

New Suits. Edward Stock, Jr., has applied for a divorce from May B. Stock, on the ground that she has treated him in a cruel and inhuman manner, thereby in-flicting grievous mental suffering. Emeline Childs, Emma Childs Dwight et al. have begun suit against A. H. Merwin, County Tax Collector, for an injunction to restrain him from issuing a deed to the State of land belonging to the plaintiffs, but assessed to un-known owners and sold for delinquent taxes.

BREACH OF GOOD MANNERS. Four Young Men Heavily Fined for

All books of etiquette declare that to quarrel and fight and swear at a danc-ing party is not good manners. Four young men were yesterday filled with deep sorrow and contrition that they had not remembered this excellent rule. On February 16 a certain secret society gave a dance at Turner Hall. If was a strictly private, invitation affair in some unknown manner possessed themselves of invitations. They went

Frank, Charles Frank and E. Henshaw in some unknown manner poss-ssed themselves of invitations. They went to the dance, accompanied by the sisters of the Messrs. Frank. The young men felt radiantly triumphant at having gained admittance. They were filled with mischlevous glee and played all manner of pranks. Their conduct was so boisterous as to attract the attention of the people in charge of the ball. On investigation it was found the party had gained admittance without invitations. The young people were told they must leave the hall. The boys grew angry and there ensued a lively quarrel. Finally the boys left, took the girls home and hurried back to go on with the dispute. On their return, matters waxed even more lively than before. Blows were exchanged, there was pushing and struggling and a liberal amount of vite language.

The trial of the case began during Justice Morrison's absence, so Recorder Rossiter came in from Pasadena yesterday to finish the hearing of the case. The evidence was against the young men. The smilling and giggling with which the four defendants listened to the evidence brought forward was suddenly quenched when Recorder Rossiter pronounced sentence—$50 apiece for Charles Frank, Henshaw and Pedler and $10 for G. Frank, who seems to have been much less culpable than his companions and to have tried to act the part of a peacemaker. The fact that the scuffling and obscenity was all in sight and hearing of women and little children, and that the defendants had forced themselves uninvited on a private dance, all combined to bring down such a heavy sentence on the young men's heads.

IN THE OIL FIELD.

IN THE OIL FIELD. The Old Wells Better Than the New Ones.

The firmness in the price of oil, and the difficulty of obtaining any large quantities, is a fairly good reason for supposing that the long-looked-for dollar price per barrel is about to be consummated. On Monday a buyer had extreme difficulty in securing 1000 barrels at 60 cents, the present price, most of the owners holding on.

The old field is now the scene of a good deal of drilling, twelve wells being worked on, some of them new ones and others being deepened. The new field does not seem to attract operators, who entirely confine their work to the original bed. The failure of a number of wells in the new field is said to be the cause of this lack of enthusiasm.

As Mr. James went prowling through Chimatown yesterday afternoon, he found himself in a retired little corner of the farthest verge of the Asiatic quarter. He entered a hallway and heard a cry of alarm from a man further in. The deputy constable rushed on as hard as he could run and burst into a room full of Chinamen, all hanging over a game of fantan with breathless interest. The room had four doors, and the dozen or so Chinamen disappeared like water out of a sieve, leaving just one struggling man in the officer's grasp. But James secured the fantan outfit—a little china bowl, a curved bamboo stick and a hear of white buttons and Chinese conbowl, a curved bamboo stick and a heap of white buttons and Chinese cop-

(From a Special Contributor to The Times.)

One of the principal questions in the historical debate of 1858, between Abraham Lincoln and Stephen A. Douglas was, "Whether the Negro was a Man?" Judge Douglas argued that he was not, and so not included in the clause of the Declaration of Independence which declares that "all men are created equal." Chief Justice Taney, in the famous Dred Scott case, had put forth the same position. Two years later the negative pinion. Two years later the negative of the question had become the shibbo-ieth of a national party and raised an issue which could only be decided by Anxious faces hung over the egraph in the Navy Department at ashington as it ticked off its unwelling meressages. It said:

Capt. Gadsden of the Arago, a chartered merchant vessel, found upon opening his orders that his ship was to be used to ram the Merrimac. Knowledge of these orders in some way got to the crew at night. The next morning, except his officers, he had not a man on board. His crew had deserted in a body.

No braver man than Gadsden ever trod the deck of a vessel. Mortified and indignant he stated his dilemma to the admiral of the fleet and asked for men. The admiral had not one man that he could spare. Gadsden read his orders again. He found that his ship had been chartered by and that his orders came from the War Office and not from the navy. "You don't care whether they are white or black?" repeated the general.

"We have a surplus of negroes. Come with me to my chief of staff. He believes in the negro and runs the black department.

the wounded Merrimac crawled into her harbor, but no one supposed her injuries were beyond repair.

Preparations were at once made by the Federals for her next appearance. It was desirable not to expose the Monitor to another battle until her injuries were repaired. The Merrimac must be sunk or destroyed. After many consultations the naval authorities decided upon the plan of attack that had been proposed by the gallant Lieut. Smith a few days before his death.

A DESPERATE PLAN OF ATTACK.

"There is only one way to cope with the Merrimac, I think, sir," the young lieutenant had said a few days before to Flag Officer Marston and others assembled in the ward room of the Minnesota. "She is encased in a shell of railroad and other iron bars which we could not break through even if we could board her. We must make a dash at her and ram her with everything we have that carries steam, with an open throttle, and all the steam each one can carry. We would have a better show if the Congress and the Cumberland had steam. But the Lord may give us wind, and if he does the stout old frigates will get there. If I once lay my ship alongside, I will lash her to the Merrimac so close that if the old Cumberland goes down she'll have company!"

shall not fail," he said, "come down yourself and we will manage it between us."

Two hours later Capt. Wilder had 350 sturdy black men drawn up in a line. This was before emancipation, and every one of them was still a slave. "You have all of you seen the great battle between the Merrimac and the Monitor," he said, "and you know that the Merrimac is a powerful fighter. She is coming out again, and the four great ships which you see yonder at anchor are going to fight her. The battle will be a hard one, and will cost many lives. When the crew of one of the big ships heard what they had got to do, they ran away like cowards and left her. Now, Col. Cannon and I want to know if you will take the places of the cowardly runaways, and fight the Merrimac until you send her to the bottom? We want to know your worth to yourselves and your country. Now, who of you will volunteer to go on board that ship and take the places of the deserters?"

Not a man moved—not a sign of emotion was shown on their sphinx-like faces. There was no response to Capt Wilder's appeal.

Not a man moved—not a sign of emotion was shown on their sphinx-like faces. There was no response to Capt. Wilder's appeal.

Col. Cannon was more than disappointed. "Is it true, then," he asked himself, "that the negro is a mere animal, to be driven like an ox to his accustomed task, and worthless for any other? That he has no manhood—no courage?" Then he reflected. "For generations these men have been mere slaves with no will—with nothing that they could call their own. How would white men come out of such experiences? I will not give them up on a single trial!"

He mounted a box and looked in the faces of the silent rank. "Men! who was it," he asked, "that fed you when you were hungry and gave you clothes and work at good wages, when you came into this camp cold and starved?" "Dat was you an' Cappen Wilder," exclaimed many volces.

Shall he leave this camp without his men? Shall he tell Abraham Lincoln, your friend, that you are a parcel of sheep with livers as white as the faces of the cowardly deserters? I will not believe it."

The colonel paused; the men were silent as the grave. But every eye was fixed, every lip was firm, every hand was clenched, as the colonel continued: "Boys, let every man of you who will go on board the Arago and help to fight her until she sinks the Merrimae or herself goes to the bottom, step out three paces to the front!"

There was no more hesitation. With heads erect, eyes steady, lips and hands clenched and step as uniform as that of a trained regiment at dress parade, as if moved by one great iron muscle, the double line stepped out three pases and halted.

if moved by one great iron muscle, the double line stepped out three pases and halted.

capt. Wilder raised a small flag. The guns of a field battery roared out their salute. Its sound, mingled with the cheers of 10,000 white soldiers, was wafted up the peninsuls and across the Warwick River to Magruder's Confederate camp, where the long roil was beaten for an expected attack. It reached across and sent its echo back from the south side of the James. That note of triumph was never heard before. The spirit of freedom was abroad—for the first time in history she had summoned the black race to fight for and protect her. This cheer was their answer to her trumpet call. Its echoes will roil down the corridors of history. Wherever it reached and through all future time it proclaimed to mankind that the negro was a man.

Only one man in seven could be taken. The chosen ones were triumphant, those who were not chosen were disappointed. The fitty were sent at once to the Arago. They were excerted to the boats by the whole camp, shouting, singing, praying, with every demonstration of joy. They proved to be willing workers and fully justified the confidence placed in them. They made sallors of the best description, and when they came ashore the negroes almost worshipped them. They had no opportunity to fight the Merrimac, for when Norfolk was captured in May the Confederates sent a spark into her magasine which sank her to the bottom. Capt. Gadsden declared that he would have taken the Arago into action with her confidence than he would have had in their predecessors.

was yesterday battered and pounded and generally mistreated by Louis Degiorgi and Guiseppi Cristojano.

Rice is a blacksmith, with a little smithy at No. 638 Upper Main street. Monday afternoon an old friend of Rice's was in the city, for a little relaxation after his arduous labors in the employ of the Southern Pacific, a few miles up the road. Rice found that his friend was in a saloon run by Degiorgi, on New High street. He went there to see if he could not induce him to leave before his money was all gone, knowing that if he should get drunk and be arrested he would in all probability lose his Job.

The Italian saloon-keeper and his retainer, Cristojano, waxed exceedingly wroth that Rice should try to induce his friend to leave. Anxious to keep him in Degiorgi's saloon until the last of his money should pass over the bar, they resented the blacksmith's interference. They accused him of trying to get his friend's money himself. A last one of them seized Rice around the waist and held him while the other pounded him well. Then they threw him into the street. Rice's friend followed and helped him home, bruised and sore and with a black eye.

Yesterday Rice swore out a complaint charging his two assaliants with battery. Officer Long served the warrants and the two men deposited $30 ball to insure their appearance in court.

Mormons Engaged in Railway Construction Southward.

Retrenehment on the Atlantic and Pacific—The Southern Pacific Called Down for Irregular Passenger-rate Transactions.

Much has been written concerning the Nevada Southern Rallway and in popular estimation it is probable too much importance has been attached to this short line. The road extends from Blake to Manvel, a distance of only thirty miles, and is said to have cost $600,000 or $700,000. It was built of second-hand material purchased from the Atlantic & Pacific Company. Its value today cannot exceed $175,000. The road was bonded for $200,000 or $300,000, and debts aggregating $150,000 additional were piled upon the little property. For the satisfaction of creditors, the road was sold by the Sherin and bought by the bond-holders, who threw it into the hands of a receiver, and he, in turn, sold it again to the Woodbury Company. Four hundred thousand dollars will be required for its redemption.

It is interesting to observe on what it is interesting to observe on what a filmsy foundation the alleged right of redemption is now held by Mayor Carlson of San Diego, who is reputed in some quarters to be representing C. P. Huntington in the matter. Mr. Carlson has a quit-claim deed, signed by the former president of the company, itsaac Blake, individually, and not in the capacity of president. The deed was not signed by the secretary of the company, it does not bear upon its face the seal of the company, nor did the company ever authorize the transfer of its equity of redemption to anyone. It is merely a transfer of the individual claim of President Blake, for a doubtful consideration, made after the Sheriff's sale of the road. It is worthless, in fact, so far as conveying any right to redeem the property, but even if this were not so, the line could be paralleled with new material at less expense than the amount required to redeem it. The thrifty, disposition of Mr. Huntington has newer manifested thesif by the purchase of fallroads beginning and ending nowhere, built of second-hand material, and which could be paralleled with a saying of money. What, then, is the actual situation? Mr. Woodbury, who is now in Los Angeles, says that he is only waiting for the expiration of the period within which the road may be redeemed. This occurs on April. 16, or about three weeks from now. If the mency is not forthcoming, he says he will proceed with construction and extend the line to Good Springs.

Opposed to Mr. Woodbury's statement that he has funds with which to extend the road, the pamphlet lately issued by his company, urging the miners to enter into contracts for the transportation of ores from the mines by steam wagons to the railways, is instructive. In this the plain intimation is given that, without such contracts, the company will be unable to secure funds with which to extend the road—a palpable admission of financial weakness. Those in position to express an opinion are not slow to say that neither Carlson nor Woodbury has the capital needed coal and fron district around Cedar City.

Coming South, the first town of importance to be reached is St. George. There a large smelter, woolen and cotton mills are located, all owned by Mormons, who, to the number of over four thousand, have settled in Washington county. Utah. That is a rich agricultural and mining country. It already produces enough to insure good freight receipts.

In its southern course the road will follow the Virgin River through the northwestern corner of Arisona, passing thence through Muddy and Las Vegas valleys, across the Atlantic and Pacific Railway west of Barstow, from whence, according to the Times informant, the road will connect directly with the Terminal Railway. If built, the road will place Los Angeles within twenty-four hours' ride of Salt Lake city.

CHICAGO, March 24.—The chairman of the Transcontinental Passenger Association has issued an order to the Southmanhood?

See what No-To-Bac has done for otherswhich are contrary to the agreement of the transcontinental lines. The particular charge is a violation of the agreement which provides that limited tickets, shall be signed by the purchaser in the presence of the agreement is the ticket. The Southern Pacific has appointed agents of their lines in San Francisco as its sub-agents, and has stocked them with tickets in blank. When the chairman objected to this the Southern Pacific ontended that the practice had been followed by nearly all of the roads for the last twenty years and there was nothing irregular in it. The chairman has ruled that it is contrary to the agreement, saying that if the Southern Pacific is to appoint agents of other roads as its sub-agents, the agreement is entirely nullified, as the road might just as well appoint brokers or the passengers themselves as agents. He declares that if the Southern Pacific is to appoint agents of other roads as its sub-agents, the agreement is entirely nullified as the road might just as well appoint brokers or the passengers themselves as agents. NEW YORK, March 24.—The World this morning says that the main features of the new transcontinental association were agreed upon at the meeting of the traffic officies, but there are several points which will have to be submitted to arbitration. One of these is the question of differentials which are demanded by the Northern Pacific, the Great Northern and the Canadian Pacific.

Great Northern and the Canadian Pacific.

It is not settled yet whether the Canadian Pacific will become a member of the association or not, but it agrees to come in if a satisfactory differential is allowed. Several years ago, it is said, the Canadian Pacific was paid a fixed subsidy amounting to about $500,000 a year for keeping out of California business. It is practically settled that the Pacific Mail Steamship Company will be paid a subsidy of about $72,500 a month for maintaining rates. It may not be put in this form, for as two transcontinental railroads are still in the hands of the courts, it might be charged that the agreement is a violation of the interstate commerce law inasmuch as the effect of this agreement is to abolish competition. It is believed, however, that a way will be found that will at least appear on the face of it to be legal. By today's arrangement a certain amount of space on each steamer was chartered.

Losing Their Tempers.

At noon Monday, as related in yesterday's Times, there was a row in a First-street barbershop between the proprietor, Sam Christopher, and E. R. Holman, a canvasser for signatures to a petition asking for a city ordinance enforcing the closing of stores, barbershops, etc., on Sunday, Holman and Christopher were on trial before Justice Owens yesterday afternoon, on a charge of disturbing the peace.

They employed no lawyer, but conducted their own case, each putting the other on the stand and asking acrimonious questions tending to show that the other was entirely to blame for all the trouble. Christopher solemnly swore that if he threw soapsuds at Officer Matuszkiewis it was by accident. Incidentally there was interesting discussion of the merits of the Sunday-closing question and the right of a man to run his business to suit himself.

Finally Justice Owens looked grave and pondered and then announced that he would take the matter under consideration.

PEERLESS REJANE

Oucen of Tragedy and Captivator of Hearts. As Madam Sans Gene, Her Work Was a Revelation.

The Americans Saw Her in Her Latest Play.

To-day, as ever, the pulse of the American people beats warm and fast at the approach of genius, whether it be native or foreign born. Nowhere, perhaps, is this fact more particularly in evidence than with regard to the stage. Year after year we see it exemplified, sometimes in the case of our own, as for example, the renowned comedian, Joseph Jefferson, or Denman Thompson, or Fanny Davenport, but more often, it would seem, in the case of the foreign, or European stars. Last year came Rejane, the queen of tragedy, fresh from her dramatic triumphs in Paris, in London and on the continent. It was her first visit to America, in search of American honors and American dollars, and her stay, though short, proved a rare and delightful treat for the American public. Unfortunately for her, our American climate dealt harshly by the prima donna, and the wear and tear of her professional duties, added to the climatic change, made Madam Rejane a rather easy subject for the grip.

Like many another sufferer from this same disease, the great French actress tried, various remedies, and submitted to all sorts of advice, until finally, when nearly exhausted, she was induced to try the genuine JOHANN HOFF'S MALT EXTRACT. The result was a complete and almost immediate cure. Now she writes regarding it as follows: "The genuine JOHANN HOFF'S MALT EXTRACT has restored me

Young Men

With a desire to dress nobby at a moderate expense will find it of interest to see our New Spring Styles of suits and trousers.

The fabrics are of choice selection, many of the better ones of foreign woolens, right up in style to the most high-toned merchant tailors.

We can furnish a nobby suit at from $12.50 to $18, made and trimmed in a first-class manner, that cannot be duplicated in quality for double the money by the so-called "cheap merchant tailors."

Remember One Thing,

There is more merit in a first-class ready-to-wear suit, made up by firstclass tailors than in a poorly-made, cheap, merchant-tailor article.

In these days of economy there is no more reason to have a suit or a pair of trousers made to order than there is to get a pair of shoes made.

He deserted his wife two weeks after the wedding day, taking with him all her hard-earned savings, which he had entrusted to him for the purchase of furniture for their little homs. It is charged that he pawned his wife's rings, which he appropriated before his departure, and a watch which he had borrowed from a friend, and bought a ticket for Pittsburgh. He will be brought back for trial.

Pasadena people will thus be given an opportunity to contribute to a worthy charity, and at the same time enjoy a pleasant day. There are tourists here also, who will doubtless be glad to aid the cause by buying a ticket for the excursion, and it is probable that a large contingent will be booked for the trip from this point.

The Fiesta Committee appeared today with buttons of the Pasadena colors. It has been decided to give the Tuesday Evening Club, the Twilight Club, the Columbia Hill Tennis Club, the Throop and the Shakespeare clubs a tally-ho. The Valley Hunt Club and Prof. Lowe will probably enter tally-hos also. The representatives of the various clubs are requested to meet in the new Board of Trade rooms Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock to secure the allottment of tally-hos.

Petty Thefts.

Petty Thetts.

Saturday night nearly a dozen petty burgiaries were committed in Pasadena, and the police, who have been working upon the cases ever since, think they will be able to gather in the perpetrators. They are supposed to be "tough" boys, who have been in trouble before, and are known to the officers. A quantity of tobacco was stolen from L. H. Michener, also a number of cigars and some chewing gum; Will Barto reports the loss of a set of harness. A couple of painters' ladders, several pleces of garden hose, some chickens, garden tools and other small articles that were left convenient to the hands of the burgiars were carried off from various sections of the city.

ALHAMBRA SHOES. The Alhambra shoe factory has recently added more "up-to-date" machinery and is now running full-handed with a capacity for 1000 pairs of shoes per day. Forty thousand dollars has been invested in the plant and stock. The operating force fluctuates between a minimum of forty and eighty hands, including four traveling representatives, one of whom is a woman, Mrs. E. J. Fields, probably the only feminine traveler in this line in the West. This firm has an extensive and constantly increasing trade throughout California, Navada, Arizona and New Mexico. The factory uses Los Angeles oil for fuel, which President and General Manager R. W. Colson says is not appreciated, as it will be when its true value as a fuel is better understood. Among the machines recently added to this plant are: The improved rapid-standard, for putting wire screws in soles; the McKay-Biglow rapid-hecler; a lasting machine and a steel strip cutter and tacker. There is a forty horse-power boiler, engine, and dynamo with a capacity of 175 lights. The waterspower boiler, engine, and dynamo with a capacity of 175 lights. the greatest advantage to California merchants and producers, if carried out. The proposition is to lease the Tehuantepec Railway from the Mexican government, and in connection therewith operate lines of steamers that will bring San Francisco into direct and cheap communication with New York and European ports, and also with the most important South American, Central American and Mexican cities.

also with the most important South American, Central American and Mexican cities.

Although the Tehuantepec Railroad, owned by the Mexican government, and which extends from Salinas Cruz, on the Gulf of Tehuantepec, to Coatzacosleos, on the Gulf of Mexico, a distance of about one hundred and twenty miles, has been practically completed for some time, it is not, however, in shape to be operated to advantage. The bridges and culverts are but temporary affairs, and the road requires to be ballasted throughout its length. In order to make it of the greatest utility, it will also be necessary to construct a long and costly iron pier at each of the terminal ports, so as to obviate the necessity of lightering, as is the custom in most ports where the harbor is shallow. All this will require an outlay of about $2,000,000, and the Mexican government is not today in a position to meet this expenditure.

In consequence it is disposed to grant concessions of a liberal character to any company that will complete the work and make the required improvements. Overtures to this end have been made to an influential resident in the City of Mexic, and it is with this gentleman that negotiations are being carried on from San Francisco.

If this plan should be carried out, it would be of almost as much advantage to the southern part of the United States as to San Francisco, for it is certain that an attempt would be made then to have the steamers touch at one or more of the ports of Southern Callfornia.

NEW INCORPORATIONS. Articles of incorporation were filed yesterday by the Lincoin Water Company, which was formed for dealing in and developing water, to acquire water-bearing lands, and to construct aqueducts, pipe lines, reservoirs and other works necessary for the business of the company. The principal place of business will be at Pasadena. The directors are: F. J. Woodbury, P. M. Green, J. H. Holmes, Willard M. Randall and Calvin Hartwell. The capital stock of the corporation is $72,000, divided into 7200 shares of the par value of $10 each. The amount actually subscribed is $36,000.

GENERAL BUSINESS TOPICS. MINING SPECULATION. The Times has received a weekly stock table and circular from a member of the Colorado has received a weekly stock table and circular from a member of the Colorado Springs Mining Exchange. No less than 116 mines are listed in this table. They are divided into "mines," "prospective mines," and "prospects," the latter largely predominating. To judge from this table, the gambling in mining stocks in Colorado Springs must be still at fever heat. There was scarcely a mine or a prospect the shares in which had not been dealt in, the number of shares sold during the week in a single mine running from 900 to 206,000, and aggregating considerably more than 1,000,000. The prices paid for the shares ranged from 2 cents to $1.55 per share, for the "prospective mines" from 2 cents to 14½ cents per share, and for the "prospective from 3-5 of a cent to 8% cents, there being no sales at the figure last mentioned, quite a number of sales being at less than 1 cent. From this it will be seen that in spite of the large number of transactions the actual amount involved is not so very great. It is asset than I cent. From this it will be seen that in spite of the large number of transactions the actual amount involved is not so very great. It is easy to imagine what the probable value of a prospect must be when shares in it are sold at less than half a cent, even when there are a million shares in the mine. In the circular the broker makes the following admission of the fact that it is necessary for Colorado speculators to go abroad for suckers, the home crop having been about exhausted:

"The mining-stock business has been very slow during the last few weeks, and prices in general are lower than they have been for four months. Up to a little time ago whenever a slump in stocks occurred, Colorado people took up whatever seemed to be cheap and desirable, and low prices did not last long; but it seems that this State's capacity for absorbing stock is limited; we have to get orders from the outside."

we have to get orders from the outside."

The Times would again warn Los Angeles people about putting their money into Colorado mining speculations at present. Under the excitement that has prevailed there for months past, everything has been boomed up to extravagant figures. It is no longer a question of investment, but of gambling, as may be noted from the ingenious admission from the circular quoted above. If there were any good things left at a bargain in Colorado, there is plenty of capital left in that State to absorb them. Not only this, but Colorado she he entire, East to draw upon, Cripple Creek having been widely advertised throughout the country.

There is no reason why Southern Californians should go to Colorado to invest their money in questionable mining properties at fictitious prices when there are so many valuable deposits in this section awaiting development, many of which may be had for little pertinent remarks in the San Francisco Call of Sunday last:

"It seems strange that men will rush away to the northern wilds—almost to the Arctic regions—in a most disagreeable climate in search for gold, and ignore the great, prolific and to a large extent unprospected and undeveloped gold fields of our own giorious State. California has produced more than $1,000,000,000 in gold, and were half the energy and half the capital employed in gold mining in the vast unexplored gold fields of the State that is being done in Alaska, Colorado, Africa or Australia, the results would surpass anything ever known in the world. The development of the thousands of auriferous quarts lodes throughout the great gold belt of California—the same being the source of the rich placers heretofore worked—would result in a yield of gold that would make the "days of '45" seem like a very tame affair.

heretofore worked—would result in a yield of gold that would make the "days of '49" seem like a very tame affair.

The writer spent nearly twenty years along the Rocky Mountains and several years in British Columbia—Kootenay, Cariboo, Cassiar and American districts—and has spent only one year in California. Yet in that brief time he has beheld geological facts proving California the most profitable gold-mining region on the continent. I say, why go to Alaska when millions may be obtained near home?

"Is Alaskan gold better than California gold? Not so at the United States Mint. It all goes at $20.87 per ounce (1000 fine.) and it appears foliy to me that men will roam the northern wilds after gold when far more can be obtained in our own genial climate—right here in California—the most prolific and extensive gold belt the world has ever known. As a practical prospector I can go into the mountains of California and discover a good-paying quartz lode (I have done so) every week during ten months in the year, free milling ore going $10 to $100 per ton, while in Trinity and Sisklyou counties the writer knows of thousands and tens of thousands of acres of rich gravel beds where hydraulic mining can be done (and is being done) to immense profit. There are millions in it! and, after many years gold mining elsewhere, the writer must say California is still and will remain the best field for profitable mining to be found on the great continent of North America.

"I venture to say that Richard Wil-be found on the great continent of North America.

"I venture to say that Richard Willoughby of Juneau, Alaska, and Dan de Quille of Virginia City, Nev., will confirm my opinion about gold mining in California, and that is, if we must have gold, it is most profitable to 'dig' it out of the 'Golden State,' and not rush off to the Yukon in the snow or to Coolgardie in the desert, but stay with California."

die in the desert, but stay with California."

If Los Angeles people of moderate means desire to do a little speculating in mining, they should club together and subscribe enough capital to do some development on one of the many promising locations that may be had in this section for a mere trifle. In many cases the owners of such prospects would be willing to accept stock in the company for the property, leaving all the money subscribed to be used for development work, which does not cost half as much here as it would in Colorado, nor one-fifth as much as it would in Alaska. By the expenditure of a couple of thousand dollars on a prospect that shows good indications it is often the case that a sufficient amount of ore may be disclosed to make the property salable at from ten to fifty times the amount invested. At the same time the investor can keep track of the work that is being done and the money expended is kept at home.

A call upon Miss Pearl Margerite Petrie, August 8, 1895, at the residence of her parents, 2826 Madison street. St. Louis, when asker her opinion as to the merits of Ripans Tabules, how she came to use them and what was her ailment, said; "My opinion of Ripans Tabules? It's very good—I hold them in very high regard. They were recommended to me by a young man in Leland Miller's drug store. I have been annoyed considerably with black-heads and tried many kinds of tollet soaps and lotions to remove them, but wasn't very successful. Then I began to lose my appetite, and finally got so that at mealtime the very sight of food almost produced a feeling of nausea. I went to see a physician and he said I was suffering very badly from a poor digestion and that was the cause of the black-heads. He prescribed for me, but I got tired taking his nasty medicines, and besides, I don't think it did me much good. One day I was in Leland Miller's and asked the clerk if he knew anything good for indigestion; he said: "Try Ripans Tabules." I did and after using them for some time—it's no trouble to take them—I was greatly improved. My appetite came back and the unsightly facial disfigurement that annoyed me so much has entirely disappeared." One Gives Relief. Relief.

Ripans Tabules are sold by drugglets or by mail if the price (50c a box) is sent to The Ripans Chemical Company, No. 10 Spruce st., New York. Sample vial, 10 cents.

A communication from H. P. Gregory in reference to a street-sweeper for the city of Santa Ana, offering to furnish one of the machines for $325, was read and filed.

The electric-light question then came up, the issue being whether or not the city should grant a franchise to J. F. Buel of Los Angeles, or take the initiatory steps toward voting bonds, so that the city could put in its own system. An enthusiastic but pleasant discussion followed, but no definite action on the matter was taken, and the board adjourned to meet Monday evening, April 6, 1896.

PROSPECTIVE IMPROVEMENTS.
One of the substantial citizens of Anaheim said to the Times correspondent today that there were three important improvements in that city that they desired to see made in the near future. The foremost, said he, is an addition to the present electric-light system, which is being profitably operated by the municipality. Only a little over a year ago a 500-incandescent light capacity plant was put in, and it was thought at that the city would require for years to come. But such is not the case. Already the plant is running at full capacity, and a large number of orders for lights are on hand that cannot be filled. The City Councilmen are now considering the matter of increasing the capacity of the present plant by putting in a new thousand-light plant. This will give a capacity, together with the plant now in operation, of 1500 lights, and this will surely provide for the growing "Mother Colony" for a number of years to come.

Another improvement to be made is a mand-pipe around the two city wells. It is proposed to sink a large tank around both wells and to extend it above the top of the wells, so that the depth of the stand-pipe would be at least forty feet, and by such improvement to the made in provement to the made in my operation of the wells, so that the depth of the stand-pipe would be at least forty feet, and by such improvement in quantity of water for any emergency would be solved. The third of the proposed improvements referred to was a much-needed extension of the water mains. "All these improvements," said the gentleman, "are revenue-getters." They are investments that are as good as gold; just like loaning a dollar for a year, and getting $1.10 back for every dollar invested. These three projected improvements are now receiving the attention of the enterprising residents of the town, and it is quite probable that an election will be called soon to give the residents an opportunity to vote bonds sufficient to enable the City Trustees to go ahead with the imp Another improvement to be made is a mand-pipe around the two city wells. PEDAGOGUES AT SANTA ANA.

The institute opened this morning at 9 o'clock in the High School building. The teachers were assigned, according to the grade of their schools, to primary or grammar departments.

Miss Ade M. Laughlin of the Los Angeles Normal addressed the primary department first. She outlined work for scanty time, as the majority of the teachers present had mixed schools of more than two grades in a room.

Miss Laughlin was followed by Miss Gearhardt of the city schools, who gave an oral reproduction of the story of Hermes, a Greek myth of the wind, by second-grade pupils.

Miss Clara Walter of Tustin closed the morning session by a class exercise in music by first-grade pupil.

The afternoon session was opened at the Congregational Church by a plano solo by Prof. Ludwig Thomas, followed by a duet, "The Joyous May Bells," by the Misses Chaffee.

The afternoon was largely taken up by a discussion, "In the work of common schools, is the study of language a more potent educational process than the study of science?"

The discussion was opened by Roy J. Young of Westminster, who favored language, as it would best serve as a stimulus to self-education, after leaving school. He argued that it stimulates the imagination and is an inspiration. Many stories, especially the fables, are instantaneous photographs of phases of human nature, and they teach lessons of morality, and fit the child to assume duties of citisenship and solve the problems of life.

W. R. Carpenter followed, advocating science as most potent, as it taught observation, and gave independent original thought. In literature, the thoughts of others were assimilated. One fault of the present day is lack of independent thought. People are guiding their thoughts by others. The ethical value of science is not to be overestimated in teaching love of birds and flowers, Children who read are inseparable. By experiment it has been proven that children do not draw inserence before t

Miss Charlotte Smythe argued for science. The object of school is to teach moral culture and character formation, habits of self-control and self-direction. Science teaches laws of nature and asks nothing to be taken without investigation.

ture and asks nothing to be taken without investigation."

Prof. Dressler was to sum up the argument and he thought he had a monstrous task. He went back to the original ples, "All depends on the teacher." He prefers a good teacher in science to a poor one in English, and a good teacher in English to a poor one in science. Whichever we do, do right. Above all allow children to stumble on things themselves occasionally and not be eternally directed. Prof. Lathrop of Stanford closed with an address on English composition, in which he showed its relation to the other subjects in the course.

Many of the teachers were delightfully entertained Monday evening at the elegant residence of County Suprintsndent of Schools J. P. Greeley on Washington avenue. The residence and grounds were beautifully illuminated with Javense.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

The county institute is still very well attended. The city is alive with teachers, and today's (Tuesday's) sessions have been as interesting and instructive as those of yesterday.

The first theme to come up today was "Our New Course of Study—Fourth, Fifth and Sixth Years," which was discussed by Josephine Guthrie, antalope; Mattle Stuart, Riverside; Fannie McKeehan, San Gorgonic, Carrie Swope, Riverside; A. W. Everett, Prospect; Kate McLaughlin, San Jacinto; Lissie Lukens, Riverside; Mabelle Lent, Schneider; Kate Cooney, Torba; Clara McMillan, Riverside; Laura Marsh, Benedict; Esther Brown, Eden, and Prof. Thomas P. Bailey of the chair of pedagogy in the State University.

One of the most profitable topics of discussion was: "As Others See Us," discussed by County Superintendent Hyatt, Harr Wagner of the Western Journal of Education, and Hon. Samuel T. Black, State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

After dinner "Science Lessons" ware discussed by W. Milliken Ida Burdre.

T. Black, State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

A Plan to Facilitate Driving to Redonde.

SANTA MONICA, March 24.—(Regular Correspondence.) Steps are being taken in the direction of a scheme to facilitate driving between this city and Redondo. At low tide the driving is excellent all the way, save at Ballona, where the entrance of the partially-completed harbor serves as an effectual barrier to travel, and renders it necessary to drive several miles out of the way in order to get past the place. Many thousand dellars was expended years ago in working on a proposed harbor at that place, but work was abandoned, and the pile-drivers and other apparatus stand just where they were last used. The melancholy swish of the waves against the decaying piles is heard where it was hoped to hear the busy rattle of loading and unloading ships. But the work which was done included the placing of two rows of piling, which extend out into deep water. Between these rows the inflowing and outflowing tides preserve a channel which, though narrow, is too deep for fording. It is estimated that it would cost its to make a preliminary survey and estimate of cost of a suitable bridge across the place. If such a bridge could be placed at reasonable cost it is believed the necessary sum could be placed. The Supervisors, it is thought, would help a little. Landowners at Ballona, it is argued, could afford to pay something for an improvement which would stimulate travel through the almost deserted place. Redondo would doubtiess be asked to contribute in proportion as it would be benefited, and Santa Monica would probably be willing to pay a share. It is expected the matter will be brought before the Chamber of Commerce at its next meeting, and it is hoped that arrangements for making a preliminary survey and estimate will be made.

SAN BERNARDINO COUNTY.

KEEN INTEREST FELT IN THE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

stare by Prof. Jenkins of Stanfor University - Demands and Aims of Education Discussed by State

SAN BERNARDINO, March 24. (Regular Correspondence.) The attendance at the Teachers' Institute continues large, and the teachers manifest a keen interest in the work before them. The lecture by Prof. O. P. Jenkins of stanford University on "Science Teaching" was most valuable to teachers of advanced grades. He believes science teaching should be given a place as one of the essential elements of general education. Science study should be woven through and through a child's life.

The lecture by Prof. S. T. Black, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, on "The Demands and Alms of Education," tended to broaden conceptions of the work of teachers. He believes that while the present standard of the schools is not all that could be desired, the fault is not all with the teachers. If the parents could occasionally take the teachers' place, criticism would be less harsh. The speaker said the amount of money spent upon schools is immense. The annual cost of primary and grammar schools in the State is $15,000,000, and $40,000,000 is invested in the State. The average salary of elementary teachers is $460 per year. The figures are surprisingly low, but they are official. The constant changing of teachers is a source of weakness. The rural schools should not be so constantly in the hands of novices. The demand for professionally trained teachers is increasing. "Teaching is the sorriest of all trades, but the noblest of all professions."

Mrs. E. B. Purnell of Sacramento gave a talk on United States history, which was highly instructive. The cosmopolitan population should be thoroughly informed regarding the nature and history of our government. She believed less attention should be paid to the Mound-builders and more to the Greeks, Romans and English, with whom we are more intimately connected. She thought teachers of history should be thoroughly informed on politics.

Stock and Fruit Farmers Are Safe for the Present-Sugar Beets Will Be Planted Near Hueneme. A.P.A. and Political Notes.

VENTURA, March 24.—(Regular Correspondence.) Capt. John Cross and a party of surveyors passed through this city this morning en route to Nordhoff, at which point they will begin the grade survey of the Ojai and Ventura Railroad. The right-of-way contracts are nearly all signed and work on the construction of the road will begin in the near future, possibly within sixty days.

Bean farmers are beginning to grow uneasy over the prospect of no rain this month. Usually the rainfall in March evens up the season, and from 1½ to 4 inches is relied on during the last half. So far there has been no relief. Fruit has passed the danger line, but more moisture is needed for the bean crop. From present indications, unless rain comes in quantity prior to April 20, there will be a short crop. During the past seventy-two hours the cloud signs have been favorable, but the barometer has registered too high for rain. Today has been one of the wasmest days of the year, and summer temperature has prevailed. Stockmen are in fairly good condition, except on the over-stocked ranges. Foothill and mountain feed is now at its best and there is feed in quantity for present demands. With a good steady rain which will reach the two-inch limit, Ventura county farmers of all classes will be guaranteed big returns for their labor and financial investment. RAIN NEEDED.

REFINERY AND OIL NOTES.

Work on the oil refinery plant is progressing rapidly. The inclosing fence is very nearly completed and the Beardsley plant is nearly completed. As soon as the material and machinery ordered in the East arrives, the work on the main buildings will begin and the plant be put in running order as rapidly as may be.

The oil steamer George Loomis missed a trip this week owing to repairs which are being made on her in San Francisco. When she resumes her trips there will be storage oil sufficient to furnish 33,000 barrels per month, which will mean that the tanks of the Pacific Coast, and Union Oil Companies at this point will be empited once each thirty days. The work on the new four-inch pipe line is nearly completed to this city, and the refilling of the 20,000-barrel tank of the Pacific Coast Company will follow its completion.

SUGAR-BEET PLANTING.

Experiments in augar-beet planting will be tried on a limited scale in the Hueneme district. E. Weston, representing the Chino factory, has been interesting farmers on the Colonia rancho and it is confidently expected that a sugar-beet factory will be built in the vicinity of Hueneme in the next eighteen months. Experts who have made a close study of the soil and climatic conditions are satisfied that sugar beets can be cultivated at a profit inthis district, on land that will not grow beans at profitable figures. The Chino company will furnish seed and instructions as to the best method of cultivation.

The third edition of the political let-ters which have been appearing in the local papers made its appearance on local papers made its appearance on Friday last in the Advocate, and at once became the sensation of the hour. Back political history formed the text of the letter, and the sitting Judge of the Superior Court was handled without gloves. Today street rumor has it that still another edition is to appear in the daily paper at an early date. Just what is to be gained by this early campaign letter-writing no man knows.

The idea of holding an early convention has apparently "died a-bornin", owing to the uncertainty of the four-year tenure-of-office act. That a big fight for Superior Judge and Supervisors is in prospect no one denies, and the effect of the political letter-writing battle now on in the papers is certain to be felt when the conventions convene.

POMONA.

A Mass-meeting to Discuss Sewers Equal Suffrage Campaign.

POMONA, March 24.—(Regular Cor-respondence.) As was anticipated in POMONA, March 24.—(Regular Correspondence.) As was anticipated in the Times correspondence yesterday, the City Trustees of Pomona have called a mass-meeting of the citizens of this place to discuss the proposition of issuing another batch of municipal bonds for the construction of a public sewer system. The meeting will be held next Tuesday evening in Kessler's Hall. The Trustees have not exact data as yet as to what the proposed system will cost, but they roughly estimate it from $40,000 to $50,000. The outfall sewer part alone will cost $21,000. The propect to issue more city bonds has been a leading topic of discussion and conversation all about town today. It would seem now that there is great opposition to the scheme to run Pomona still further in debt, but, as in the campaign previous to the popular vote upon the issuance of the $195,000 worth of water bonds, there may be a radical change in public opinion here in the next few weeks. That Pomona needs sewerage no one who knows about the cause of disease, contagious and epidemic, will dispute, but the fact that this city now has $40,000 worth of water bonds will make tax-payers give the proposition very serious consideration.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE MEETINGS.

The mass-meetings that have been held in the Unitarian Church today in the interest of the W.C.T.U. and of neid in the Unitarian Church today in the interest of the W.C.T.U. and of the movement to educate the people to the importance of the proposed constitutional amendment in favor of woman suffrage, have been well attended. The evening meeting promises to be the best attended of any of them. If the women will wage everywhere as enthusiastic a campaign for the State constitutional amendment granting them a right to vote at all our civil elections, as the ladies of Pomona have started out to do, there is going to be some hard and sealous work done between this and the election day next November. At the meetings in the Unitarian Church today, Mrs. Helen M. Gougar was the chief speaker, and she held her audiences here in rapt attention. A number of the Pomona ladies made short speeches on the subject of woman suffrage, and in the general discussion of the subject many of our home ladies joined with an earnestness that was somewhat surprising.

THE WILSHIRE HOTEL.

PUBLIC MEETING FOR DISCUSSION OF THE PROJECT.

Sixty Thousand Dollars Already Subscribed-Sixty-five More Required-Balance of Seventy-five Thousand to Be Raised by Mort-

About fifty representative business men gathered in the assembly hall of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday to hear the Wilshire Boulevard Hotel project elucidated. Col. A. B. Hotchkiss was called upon to preside, and George B. Parsons acted as secretary. W. B. Wilshire introduced the subject, and outlined briefly the plans of the company. He emphasized the importance of erecting a hotel of the first class in Los Angeles, calling attention to the superior accommodations afforded here-tofore by the Raymond Hotel at Pasa-dena, the Hotel del Coronado, the Hotel del Monte, and other famous hostelries dena, the Hotel del Coronado, the Hotel del Monte, and other famous hostelries of the Pacific Coast. Los Angeles, not being so favored, had lost the cream of the tourist business, which had been deflected to other places. The colonel said that he did not wish to detract from the advantages of location possessed by the magnificent site of the Silent property, but thought that Los Angeles is now able to support and to build two first-class hotels for the tourist business, and that the two would secure three times as much patronage as one would bring. Los Angeles's advantage over San Francisco with respect to railway facilities was referred to, and the desirability of generous provision for the people who may come here was urged as likely to result in substantial benefit to the city itself. The rapid growth of this place was due to railway competition; so a greater proportion of the tourist business could be secured by providing on a grander scale for the entertainment of visitors.

"Look at Jacksonville and other cities in Fiorida," said Col. Wilshire. "They commenced with one or two tourist hotels, and some of these towns, as I understandit, now have eighteen or twenty hotels of the first class, and all filled and overflowing. I tell you we must cultivate this crop of tourists. Our orange crop may be injured by drough; the prices of all our products injured by over-production, but the crop."

Mr. Wilshire then adverted to the monetary advantage, that would accerted the time to the product of the correct of the hould accerted the time advantage, that would accerted the crop."

share we must cultivate the crop."

Mr. Wilshire then adverted to the monetary advantage that would accrue at this time from the building of a hotel, the distribution of $200,000 among local artisans and supply houses, and the ultimate profits to be derived from the influx of visitors, who would expend liberally of their means if they could be kept here. This source of revenue was estimated to be worth not less than $30,000 a month to the grocers, butchers and provision firms of the city, and perhaps $50,000 to the stores indirectly benefited by a tourist hotel entertaining from 300 to 500 people of the wealthier class.

A letter from John Oliver Plank, general manager of the Montezuma Hotel of Las Vegas, N. M., was read. Mr. Plank most heartily indorsed the proposed establishment of a hotel here, and tendered a subscription of $10,000 to help the scheme along. He thought $150,000 should be raised to build a perfect hotel plant, and expressed a desire to secure a five-years' lease of the property should such a hotel be built. He further guaranteed to place from $10,000 to $15,000 in stock with eastern capitalists. The letter was vigorously applauded.

H. D. Wilshire outlined the cost of the hotel, and announced that $60,000 had been raised by subscription, as follows: The Wilshire Company, $25,000; John Oliver Plank, $10,000; J. D. Bicknell, $5000; the Traction Railway Company, $1000; Mrs. George Wilshire, $1000; Mrs. C. C. Carpenter, $1000; W. E. de Groot, $1000, and $15,000 guaranteed to be raised by J. O. Plank in the East. This left only $55,000 to be raised in addition, aggregating $125,000, and leaving $75,000 to be raised by mortgage to complete the desired amount. tions was asked in support of this project.

Mr. Wilshire dilated on the advantages of the site at the corner of Seventh street and Park View avenue, which overlooks Westiake Park. He said that the park would practically serve the purpose of "private hotel grounds of equal extent, there being few people there on other days than sundays. This would be of inestimable advantage, and insure a full house all the time during the tourist season. The capital stock had been fixed at $500.000, and no subscriptions would be called for until they amounted in the aggregate to $125,000, thus insuring the completion of the work on the scale contemplated.

from first-class tourist patronage were enormous.

C. C. Carpenter and Mr. Fudiker both spoke in favor of the Westlake site, and it was announced by Mr. Wilshire that, owing to the encouragement already received, the company would be incorporated immediately. The plan proposed is to organize a stock company, capital $500,000, and to erect the hotel on block B of the Wilshire Boulevard tract, comprising a frontage of 280 feet on Seventh and Carondelet streets by 530 feet on Park View avenue. The tract has an area, from street centers, of over five acres. Grading, graveling, sidewalking and sewering expenses will be borne gratultously by the Wilshire Company. The schedule price of the block in lots is $55,900. The company will sell the block for $50,000 and take half the amount in stock of the hotel company. Should the amount required be raised, the plan is to complete the hotel before January I, 1897, at a cost, equipped, of not less than $150,000, exclusive of the cost of the block. Subscribers will receive two shares of stock for each $100 subscribed.

Taxes Delinquent After Last Monday

Taxes Delinquent After Last Monday in April.

A correspondent of The Times has asked whether or not there is any possibility of the time beng extended for the payment of taxes this spring. La Flesta commences on April 25, only Sunday intervening between the four days' carnival and the last day for the payment of State, county and city taxes, which falls on April 27.

Tax Collector Merwin, being interviewed upon the subject, says it is impossible to grant an extension of time, as the language of the statute is imperative. Sec. 3746 reads as follows: "The taxes on all personal property secured by real property, and one-half the taxes on all real property will be due and payable on the first Monday in October, and will be delinquent on the last Monday in November, at 8 o'clock p.m., and unless paid prior thereto, 15 per cent. will be added to the amount thereof, and if said one-half be not paid before the last Monday in April next, at 6 o'clock p.m., an additional 5 per cent. will be payable on and after the first Monday in January next, and will be delinquent on the last Monday in April mext thereafter, at 6 o'clock p.m., and unless paid prior thereto, 5 per cent. will be added to the amount thereof.

And the last sale will be made by 12 p.m., Tuesday, March 31, the new Encyclopedia Britannica, which The Times has been offering on such remarkably low terms, has been subscribed for so rapidly that it has been decided to discontinue the delivery of the work on the payment of one dollar down. There will, however, be no change in the price at present and delivery will be made on payment of $3.00 for the few remaining days of the sale. The Times will continue to present each subscriber with a certificate of membership in the "Home University League" for one year Free and will likewise present each with a free copy of the Guide to all the fields of learning in University work, business life, trades, crafts and professions, and one year's subscription to Self Culture, the organ of the League and leading educational maga-

Don't put it off until they are all subscribed for, the time to act is now. You will never have cause to regret that you have enriched your home with the great library of libraries, the gleanings of the wisdom of centuries.

This great work has been brought up to date by the revision of each separate volume, at great expense. 20,000 biographies have been added to its generous store of intellectual wealth, and it is today presented in 25 elegant Royal Octavo volumes, of over one thousand pages each. The crowning educational work extant.

Read Our Inparalleled Offer.

On receipt of the annexed coupon and Three Dollars we will forward, freight prepaid, to any reader of The Times, the complete set in 25 volumes of the New Encyclopedia Britannica any style of binding, allowing them to pay the balance in payments of $5 per month, or we will, on the 10c a day plan, ($3 per month) deliver the first twelve volumes and as soon as they are paid for send, freight prepaid, the remaining thirteen volumes. We will also give each subscriber, free of cost, a certificate of membership in the Home University League for one year, a year's subscription to Self Culture, the organ of the League, which embraces the lectures on university work, together with innumerable articles on the latest and best thought. Besides a "Guide to Systematic Reading in the Encyclopedia Britannica," outlining over fifty courses of study, and the Saturday Times and Weekly Mirror for one year.

It is not necessary to pay for them all at once remember: if you choose you and your family may become the possessors.

It is not necessary to pay for them all at once, remember; if you choose you and your family may become the possessors of not only the greatest work of reference in print, but as well its numberless educational advantages. Give that boy or girl every opportunity to succeed and then their success in life will be greater joy to you, while for their failure you cannot be held accountable.
